

Buy Your North Vietnamese Girlfriend a Bicycle Chain

BY HARRISON E. SALISBURY (c) N.Y. Times News Service HANOI, North Vietnam — The best present you can give your girl friend in Hanoi is not a box of candy or even a diamond ring. It's a new chain for her bicycle. The bicycle is just as essential to North Vietnamese as the auto is to Angelenos. Without the bicycle Hanoi's life would come to a halt. If by some magic weapon all the bikes in North Vietnam could be immobilized, the war would be over in a twinkling.

Hanoi's citizens, according to foreign residents, are notably honest. Theft is almost unknown. Hotel residents leave money in their rooms with other articles of great value. The foreigners say that there is only one thing that sometimes disappears—a bicycle. On the broad boulevards great sections of sidewalk are roped off in the early evening just before the movies start. Outside the theaters 600 bikes, each with its wheel lock, will be parked row on row in portable wooden racks. Each also has a license tag issued by the municipal authority, which averts confusion since so many of the bikes are identical. One of North Vietnam's leading light industries is bicycle production. Bicycles are also imported in large numbers from Communist China and from Eastern European countries, particularly East Germany. A bicycle from China costs 200 dong since a 30 per cent price cut this year. The dong is nominally valued at 3.53 to the dollar, but its purchasing power is more clearly reflected by pay rates, which for factory or office workers range from 70 to 80 dong a month.

Bicycles are not rationed, but the market is controlled by the issuance of purchase permits through places of employment. The same Chinese bicycle that costs 200 dong in a store will fetch 1,000 dong in a private sale. Under wartime conditions spare parts are often in short supply, which is why a new bicycle chain is such a priceless present. Tires are good presents, too, as are gears, wheels and other components.

83 Die In Bus Accident

By TONY ESCODA MANILA (AP) — In possibly the world's worst highway tragedy, two buses loaded with Roman Catholic pilgrims collided yesterday and plunged into a deep gorge where they crumpled like accordions.

Rescuers counted the bodies of 83 men, women and children and brought out 60 injured. The Philippine Constabulary said this was believed to account for all on the two buses but the search went on into the night, with U.S. Navy personnel joining the Philippine army.

Many of the injured were in such serious condition that they were not expected to survive.

The scene was a narrow mountain road 45 miles south of Manila and not far from Taal volcano which erupted in 1965. Fifty-seven buses were in a convoy traveling to Ternate, in adjoining Cavite Province, to celebrate the Feast of the Epiphany.

An official reconstruction of the accident said the ninth bus in line went out of control when its brakes failed on the down-grade. It rammed the bus ahead and both careened off into the 300-foot deep ravine bordering the road.

While the accident occurred in early daylight, the ravine was so steep and narrow that the first rescuers had to use flashlights to locate victims.

The site of the tragedy was the scene a year ago of a two-bus collision in which nine persons were killed and 16 injured. The road there is narrow and twisting, inhabitants of the area have been demanding that it be widened.

This may be the worst highway accident on record. The previous record is believed to be the 74 who drowned when a crowded trolley bus plunged into the Nile near Cairo, Nov. 1, 1965. The worst in the United States occurred May 25, 1950, when 34 persons were killed in the collision of a street car and a gasoline truck in Chicago.

1967 State Farm Show Has Best of State Agriculture

By JOHN L. TAYLOR HARRISBURG (AP) — The best Pennsylvania has to offer in the field of agriculture goes on display for the consumer public Monday with the opening of the 51st anniversary State Farm Show.

Gov. Scranton and his agriculture secretary, Leland H. Bull, plan to make a preview tour of the exposition tomorrow through the giant Farm Show complex at the north end of this city.

Through the remainder of the week, providing the weather is satisfactory, as many as 700,000 persons may take in the show to see what's new in an industry that predates history itself.

This year's show has more than 10,500 individual entries of farm and farm home products on display, all vying for ribbons and prize money totaling $65,555.

Among the individual entries are some 2,000 head of livestock to be judged and sold to the highest bidder. The animal traditionally drawing the best price is the champion 4-H baby beef. Last year's baby beef champion was a 1,060-pound polled hereford, owned by 11-year-old Billy Davis of Schellburg, Bedford County. The animal sold for a record $531 a pound. In addition to the livestock, this year's show features 250 commercial exhibits, ranging from farm machinery to home appliances. Various state government agencies also have exhibits planned.

For those who feel hunger pangs while taking in the show, there are 19 food stands, including the popular baked

Prospects Dim For Viet Talks

By HEDRICK SMITH (c) N. Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — The administration let it be known last night that it does not see any increased prospects for peace negotiations growing out of recent declarations by North Vietnamese spokesmen.

Officials here said they regarded Hanoi's latest comments as part of a concerted campaign to get the United States unconditionally to halt its air raids on North Vietnam without any substantive concessions by the North Vietnamese, rather than as signals that Hanoi wants to begin serious peace talks.

They re-emphasized that Washington was not willing to end the bombing raids without some matching military de-escalation from the Communist side.

Reports from South Vietnam, officials said, show no significant drop in either the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops into South Vietnam or of Communist-initiated military actions, nor do they show any slackening of the general Communist determination to press the war effort.

The administration's assessment followed three days of uncertainty about Hanoi's intentions. The situation grew out of a conversation on Tuesday with the North Vietnamese premier, Pham Van Dong, by Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, and out of comments Thursday by the chief North Vietnamese diplomatic representative in Western Europe, North Vietnam issued a further statement of its position over the Hanoi radio yesterday.

The net effect of the statements, the officials here concluded, is that while Hanoi has slightly changed the phraseology of its peace program, it has not made any change of substance.

potato booth and a main cafeteria. Meeting in conjunction with the Farm Show are scores of agricultural organizations, which have supported this mid-winter extravaganza since its inception in 1917. Among the entertainment events scheduled are a folk dance festival, a horse pulling contest, a tractor contest and a livestock parade. Admission to the show and all accompanying events is free. Scranton, in a program message to show visitors, pointed to the this year's theme: "A Progressive Agriculture Benefits You — the Consumer." Calling for show both a symbol and a reassurance, the Governor said:

"It is a token portrayal of the substance and services that link farm and dinner table. The energy that goes into this great exposition and the high quality that is evident in all departments confirm agriculture's potential for providing a continuing supply of consumers' most important need."

IT ALL MEANS DEATH

To U.S.: Terror; To Reds: War

EDITOR'S NOTE — International attention has focused recently on reports of civilian deaths in North Vietnam due to U.S. bombings. Less attention is given to the deaths of civilians in South Vietnam due to Viet Cong terror tactics. Here is a summary of that situation.

By BOB GASAWAY SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Americans call it terror. The Viet Cong call it war. Regardless of the name, it means death.

Communist guerrillas range all over South Vietnam, from the demilitarized zone to the Mekong River delta. They kidnap, torture, maim and kill. They use bullets, bombs and knives.

Some of the victims are American servicemen asleep in billets. Others are Vietnamese government officials or employees. Many are rice farmers, housewives, children or other civilians. National police statistics show that the Viet Cong during the last three years have assassinated roughly 2,100 civilians because they were connected with the government or were too close to the terrorists' targets. The assassinations show a steady increase — from 479 in 1964 to 608 in 1965 to an estimated 1,000 last year.

Youngsville Bypass Construction Plans Signed by Governor

By STEVE CULLINANE

Construction plans for the Route 6 Youngsville bypass were signed Thursday by Governor Scranton.

Yesterday, Sen. Richard Frame and Assemblyman William C. Fuelhart announced the signing and said they were pleased with the progress made. Senator Frame said:

"It's been a long fight. I'm delighted we got it." The two legislators spoke yesterday at the Blue Manor restaurant to a group of citizens interested in the bypass project. They said bids would be opened Feb. 24.

Frame and Fuelhart said that the bypass will be financed entirely by the state, without using federal funds. A recent cutback in federal funds for Pennsylvania highway construction had threatened, Frame said, to delay the bypass, until it was decided that the state would pay 100 per cent of the costs. Originally the plan called for the state and federal governments to split the construction costs 50-50.

Frame said that no date has been set for the beginning of construction work, but added that work normally begins about a month after bids are opened.

According to plans announced by the State Highway Department last October, the new road will be approximately six miles long and cost an estimated $5.1 million. It will be a four-lane divided highway.

Robert A. Peterson, county planner, said last night that the new road will handle twice or three times the present traffic on Route 6 more safely and at a faster speed. He said the road will have a capacity for as many as 20,000 cars a day. The present road, he said, cannot handle 5,000 cars a day without becoming crowded.

Peterson said that the Youngsville bypass will be the first link in a planned chain of improvements to Route 6 in Warren County. As the first modern road in the county, he said, it will provide needed access.

"Access is all-important in Warren County," said Peterson. "It benefits every economic endeavor."

The mayor of Youngsville, Ernest A. McGraw, said last night:

"I feel that the bypass will be of great benefit to Youngsville. It will take through-traffic off the main street. This is very important to us, as it will be to Warren when the bypass there is completed."

McGraw noted that people whose houses are in the path of the bypass will have to relocate. He said, "We expect to have regulation of subdivisions so that people will have places to build other houses. This, too, is very important."

County Commissioner Lewis Crippen who lives in Youngsville and commutes between there and Warren, said last night:

"It is wonderful to have the Youngsville bypass approved. It will be wonderful to relieve

General Motors Recalling 269,000 Autos for Steering

By WALTER RUGABER

(c) N. Y. Times News Service DETROIT — The General Motors Corporation announced last night that it would seek recovery of more than 269,000 of its 1967 model automobiles because of a steering column defect.

The massive recall campaign appeared to affect virtually all of the manufacturer's production in its so-called "A-body" lines, a series of models built with the same type of underpinning.

The company identified the vehicles involved as 89,950 Chevrolet Chevelles and El Caminos, 76,103 Pontiac Tempests, 56,441 Oldsmobile F-85's, and 46,749 Buick Specials. The company indicated that all of the 1967 autos are in the hands of customers. A spokesman asserted that all are not defective but that the company does not know the number which are and would thus seek to correct the entire number.

General Motors said there was no defect in the column itself but that the steering shafts involved had been incorrectly installed during assembly of the autos.

This, the company said, could cause "a binding condition which, even though not noticeable to the driver, might subject the shafts to abnormal stresses under certain conditions."

The company emphasized that owners of the cars involved are being notified by certified mail and asked to bring their cars to dealers for correction.

While the recovery effort disclosed last night was a sizable one, it is not the most extensive the company has undertaken. General Motors has sought the correction of more than 1.8 million 1964 and 1965 cars because of a throttle defect.

General Motors reported the steering shaft defects yesterday to Dr. William Haddon Jr., administrator of the National Traffic Safety Agency.

Red Statements Shedding Doubt on Possible Talks

TOKYO (AP) — A North Vietnamese government statement yesterday described Hanoi's headline demands as "a basis of ways to settle Vietnam problems," but left in doubt the Communists' attitude toward peace talks without conditions. Vague hints from the Communist capital have quickened interest around the world in the possibility of a Hanoi contact with Washington. The United States waited for clarification of North Vietnamese statements, expressing hope for something positive.

Thus far, from the U.S. administration's viewpoint, nothing concrete has been forthcoming from Hanoi to indicate whether an American decision to halt the bombing of North Vietnam would lead to a reciprocal gesture from that country's Communist regime.

The latest development in what appeared to be a guarded sounding by Hanoi was the broadcast by the Communists' official news agency, VNA, of an "authorized" statement describing Hanoi's four-point stand on Vietnam as a basis for settlement.

The statement was preceded by complaints that some newspapers and broadcasts in "capitalist nations" had distorted remarks made Wednesday by Premier Pham Van Dong in an interview with a New York Times correspondent in Hanoi.

The broadcast gave no instance of distortion but said: "On this matter, the Vietnam News Agency has been authorized

Phantoms Run MIG String To Nine for Week; U.S. 0

By JOHN LENGEL
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. F4C Phantom jets tumbled one North Vietnamese MIG21 to destruction yesterday by a secrecy-veiled maneuver 30 miles northwest of Hanoi and shot down another with a missile, Air Force spokesmen announced.
That ran the record for the week to nine MIGs against no American losses, and for the war to 36 to 10.
The U.S. Command, however, reported the loss of two planes elsewhere — a reconnaissance Phantom that crashed from "unknown causes" 100 miles west of Hanoi and a Navy A4 Skyhawk felled by North Vietnamese ground gunners Thursday. The Phantom's two crewmen were rescued. The Skyhawk pilot is missing. The list of planes acknowledged lost over the north rose to 455.
Diplomatic jockeying about war and peace prospects attended the American aerial operations and scattered ground fighting.
—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said in a letter to a North Carolina student leader, made public in Washington, that the United States is ready to meet Hanoi officials "either in public or in secret" for talks to end the war.
—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky told newsmen in Saigon "we are getting closer to negotiations every day" because the North Vietnamese "are finding the war too expensive both in money and men." North Vietnam is suffering, he said, "and we are stronger than ever."
The day's air battle developed in an area American pilots call MIG Alley. The Phantoms were escorting fighter-bombers. While the one kill was attributed to an air-to-air missile, the other was described as coming simply from "a maneuver." Just what the Phantoms did in that case was not disclosed. The kills were credited to Capt. Richard M. Pascoe, 32, of Lakeside, Calif., and Lt. Norman E. Wells, 27, of Redwood City, Calif., in one Phantom; and to Maj. Thomas M. Hirsch, 38, of Rockford, Ill., and Lt. Roger J. Strasswimmer, 23, of New York City in another.

Reds Attack U.S. Airfield At Pleiku; Damages Light
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Communist forces made a heavy mortar attack early today on a U.S. military airfield at Pleiku City in the central highlands, the U.S. Command reported.
Headquarters said the Communists fired 200 to 300 rounds and damaged several buildings at Holloway Airfield. A spokesman said damage to aircraft on the field was light and that U.S. casualties also were light.
Holloway Airfield is used mainly by helicopters and is not the largest airport at Pleiku, 240 miles northeast of Saigon. Pleiku is headquarters of the Vietnamese 2nd Army Corps. Troops of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division, the 25th Infantry Division and the 1st Cavalry, Airborne, Division are based in the Pleiku area.
On Feb. 7, 1965, Pleiku was the scene of two major Communist attacks that, combined with other enemy assaults, set off the surge in the Vietnam war. A heavy influx of U.S. troops started shortly thereafter and the aerial pounding of North Vietnam began.
Saturday's attack on Holloway Airfield, 2.5 miles east of Pleiku City, lasted for nearly 30 minutes, a U.S. spokesman said. He said several satchel charges were found in the area after the attack, indicating the Communists also were attempting to infiltrate the airfield.
There was no immediate report of Communist casualties.

Mansfield, Dirksen Disagree On Peace Talk Possibilities

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said yesterday he believes "the opening has been enlarged" for possible negotiations to end the war in Vietnam.
But Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview there have been "no hard evidence and no firm clues" that Hanoi wants to negotiate.
Mansfield said he believes the "great degree of flexibility" President Johnson gave U.N. Secretary-General U Thant in seeking peace negotiations may already be paying off.
But Dirksen said, "Nothing has come from that quarter that I can see to raise any new hopes."
Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., just back from a Southeast Asian trip, told a news conference he is more pessimistic about military prospects in Vietnam than he was a year ago.
As a result, he added, he is "more favorably inclined toward political settlement" than he was at that time. He explained that, "It looks to me like it's going to be a long, drawn-out effort—and it's very expensive."
These varying senatorial assessments came while the State Department was releasing a letter by Secretary Dean Rusk expressing U.S. willingness to meet Hanoi envoys—"either in public or in secret"—to seek a peaceful settlement.
Mansfield disclosed that after a November speech in which he urged U.N. Security Council action on Vietnam, Johnson commissioned him to talk personally with the secretary-general and U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg.
As an outgrowth of these conversations, Mansfield expressed the belief that "there is still the possibility of having the matter brought before the Security Council."
Mansfield and Dirksen said they oppose any bombing pause at this time although both said they would support the President in any move he makes in this field.
"But Dirksen said: 'I would not like to go down that dark alley again. War does not admit to holidays.'"

Chicago Schools Remain Open If Teachers Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — The eight public junior colleges in Chicago remained open yesterday in the face of a strike by instructors, but attendance dropped sharply.
A spokesman for the junior college system said 85 of the 684 teachers crossed picket lines. Only 50 per cent of the pupils, he added, went to classes. Enrollment totals 35,000.
The Chicago Teachers Union — CTU — has set a strike for Monday in the city's 500 public elementary and high schools. It would be the first walkout in history against those schools. The enrollment totals 570,000. The demands of the CTU and those of Local 1600 Cook County College Teachers Union, total $53 million from their respective schools for the coming year.
The school boards respond, in essence, that they don't have that kind of money.
The CTU, which says its members number 13,500 of the 23,000 elementary and high school teachers, said it expects 80 per cent of the teachers to stay away from work.
James F. Redmond, Chicago's public school superintendent, said that — if the strike goes on Monday — the schools will operate. He called upon parents to offer aid "in any capacity in which they feel they may be helpful."
Striking junior college instructors opened off-campus classes yesterday in the Episcopal Cathedral of St. James on the North Side. They said they plan to

Great Society Programs Face Committee Struggle

BY MARJORIE HUNTER
(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee suggested yesterday that Congress may scuttle President Johnson's model cities and rent supplement programs.
Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., also said in an interview that other Great Society programs "face rough sledding" in his committee.
"We're going to examine every nondefense money request with considerable skepticism," he said. "It's time we weed out the chaff from the wheat."
With the emphasis certain to shift this year from initiating new programs to close examination of existing ones, the House Appropriations Committee has shaped up as the major battleground of the new Congress opening next week.
For it is there that initial congressional decisions are made on the President's spending request. Committee decisions can be modified by the House itself, or in the Senate, but the general spending pace is set by the House Appropriations Committee.
Largely dominated by liberal spenders in the last two years, the House committee will have a far more conservative cast this year, reflecting Republican gains in the November general election.
Both programs encountered rough going last year, despite the fact that Congress was dominated by liberals and moderates. At times, the administration despaired at salvaging either the model cities plan for rejuvenating city slums or the program for helping low-income families pay their rents.
Other Great Society programs may fare better than these two, Mahon predicted.
"We're not going to abolish the antipoverty program," he said. "We may make some changes, maybe even trim it, but we won't cut it off."
He predicted, too, that Congress would continue pouring large sums of money into education "but I would hope that we could hold the line and not go too far."
He also said he would favor fully funding the Apollo lunar-landing and development of the supersonic airliner.

In and Around The Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said yesterday he will propose a tax incentive plan to encourage industries to curb air and water pollution.
Under the proposal, a company would receive a 20 per cent tax credit on its expenditures for antipollution equipment which meets federally approved standards. A credit could be subtracted from tax due.
Smathers, No. 2 Democrat on the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said he feels his plan might work faster than some of the pollution control laws enacted in the preceding Congress.
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proclaimed February as American History Month, declaring:
"It is through the study of history that present generations can best honor our debt to the wisdom, faith, and sacrifice of those who came before us."
In a White House proclamation, Johnson said the nation's history is far more than a mere record of long ago events, "for it is only through knowing and understanding the sources of our common heritage that we become aware of ourselves as being, in truth, one people."
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler said a decision is expected "very soon" on the interest rate for the proposed bonus security to be offered for sale to purchasers of U.S. savings bonds.
The bonus certificate will be sold to those buying Series E savings bond on the payroll savings or bond-a-month plans. Fowler told a meeting of the U.S. Industrial Payroll Savings committee.
There had been reports that the Treasury might fix a rate as high as 5 per cent on the new bonds which would have to be held for a specific period, possibly 18 to 24 months. But banks and savings and loan associations protested a rate that high.
Series E bonds now pay 4.15 per cent interest.

Indonesia's ambassador-designate, Suwito Kusumowidagdo, 59, a career diplomat, arrived at his new post yesterday to succeed Lambertus N. Palari, who retired.
A nine-member panel of experts asked to originate suggestions for the agenda of the forthcoming Western Hemisphere meeting told President Johnson and 19 Latin-American chiefs that establishment of a Latin-American common market is "an urgent and unavoidable need."

Bicycle

Hanoi has no taxis. Only diplomats and high officials have cars, and they are provided for foreign visitors. There is a small number of hand-hauled, rubber-tired carrying carts, but these are more likely to be filled with boxes and bundles than passengers.
Hanoi has a small municipal streetcar system using half-size tandem cars, but it operates only in the evening and early morning because of the bombing. There is a bus system for the suburbs and nearby towns, but it seems to run irregularly, mostly at night, utilizing a beat-up fleet of old camouflaged buses.
The bicycle is the key to transport in the country as well as in Hanoi. It is bicycle that carries fantastic burdens when rail and truck links are impeded by bombing.
One foreign resident told of coming upon a place near Halphong where bombing had severed a rail line. A brigade of hundreds of bikes was on the scene. Freight was transferred from the train to the bikes—200 pounds on each. In a remarkably short time, the foreigner related, the freight was moving along the bombed-out tracks to a point where it could be reloaded onto another train.
The most active period for transport is at night since the American air effort slackens then or is more easily evaded. Then the big truck convoys and myriad of bicycle caravans roll.

Craig Truax, 38, Appointed Secretary of Commonwealth

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican State Chairman Craig Truax said yesterday he would vacate his $20,000-a-year party post to accept a cabinet position with the incoming Shafer Administration.

Truax, 38, was named by Governor-elect Raymond P. Shafer to serve as secretary of the Commonwealth at an annual salary of $25,000. The appointment was announced following a meeting between the two men.

"I am certain he will be of immeasurable help in handling administration problems as well as political policy matters," Shafer commented.

District Attorney Of Chautauqua Names Assistant

MAYVILLE, N. Y. — W. Park Catchpole, a Jamestown attorney yesterday was named first assistant district attorney for Chautauqua County by the county's new D.A., Robert J. Sullivan.

Sullivan, who was elected to the D.A.'s job last November has served previously as first assistant in the D.A.'s office under former district attorney, Sidney T. Hewes.

Hewes declined to seek reelection last fall. Catchpole has been a practicing attorney in Jamestown since 1953. He received his law degree in 1949 from the University of Michigan, after first gaining an undergraduate degree at Syracuse University, in 1940.

The new first assistant served in the Navy during World War II, attaining the rank of commander.

Truax said he would call a meeting of the Republican State Committee at the earliest convenience in order that a new state chairman might be selected.

Ever since the November election, there was speculation here that Truax would be replaced as state chairman. Reliable sources said his replacement was sought by U. S. Sen. Hugh Scott.

Truax, who joined the state committee in 1956 as a public relations aide, became chairman shortly after Gov. Scranton assumed office in 1963.

Although the personal choice of Scranton, Truax reportedly does not fall into as much favor with Scott, whose choice for the post is said to be Lester F. Burelle, chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and head of the GOP in Wayne County.

Meanwhile, it was reported that Shafer may be ready to announce another cabinet appointment.

Legislator Sees Interstate Need To End Pollution

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Pennsylvania state legislator initiated yesterday a new drive for an interstate air pollution compact.

State Sen. Charles R. Weiner, D-Phila., who is chairman of the State Commission on Interstate Cooperation, invited the governors of New Jersey, New York, Delaware and Pennsylvania as well as federal officials to a meeting here Feb. 3 to discuss a proposal for a compact.

The four governors already have an informal agreement reached during the recent National Governors Conference that none of their states will provide a haven for industries dodging air pollution on controls of other states.

Cleveland Teachers Plan to Strike Monday

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Education Association went ahead yesterday with plans to strike Cleveland Public Schools Monday despite opposition from the larger Cleveland Teachers Union.

Eugene Mag, executive secretary of the association, said teachers will picket each of the 180 schools in the system. He criticized the stand of James O'Meara, president of the rival teachers union, who called the strike illegal.

The teachers union is affiliated with the AFL-CIO while the association is linked to professional groups such as the Ohio Education Association.

Local 279 of the teachers union is recognized by the school board as representative of the 5,800 classroom teachers. The union says it has 3,000 members. The association claims 2,000 members.

O'Meara indicated it was possible the union might call for a strike at a later date, but only if the board refuses further negotiations on a new salary offer approved Monday.

Members of the union now are voting on the new salary offer, and complete results will not be known until next Monday.

However, O'Meara said the vote was running strongly in favor of rejecting the salary proposal and calling for renewed negotiations.

School officials indicated no plans were being made to keep Cleveland's 152,000 public school children away from classes Monday.

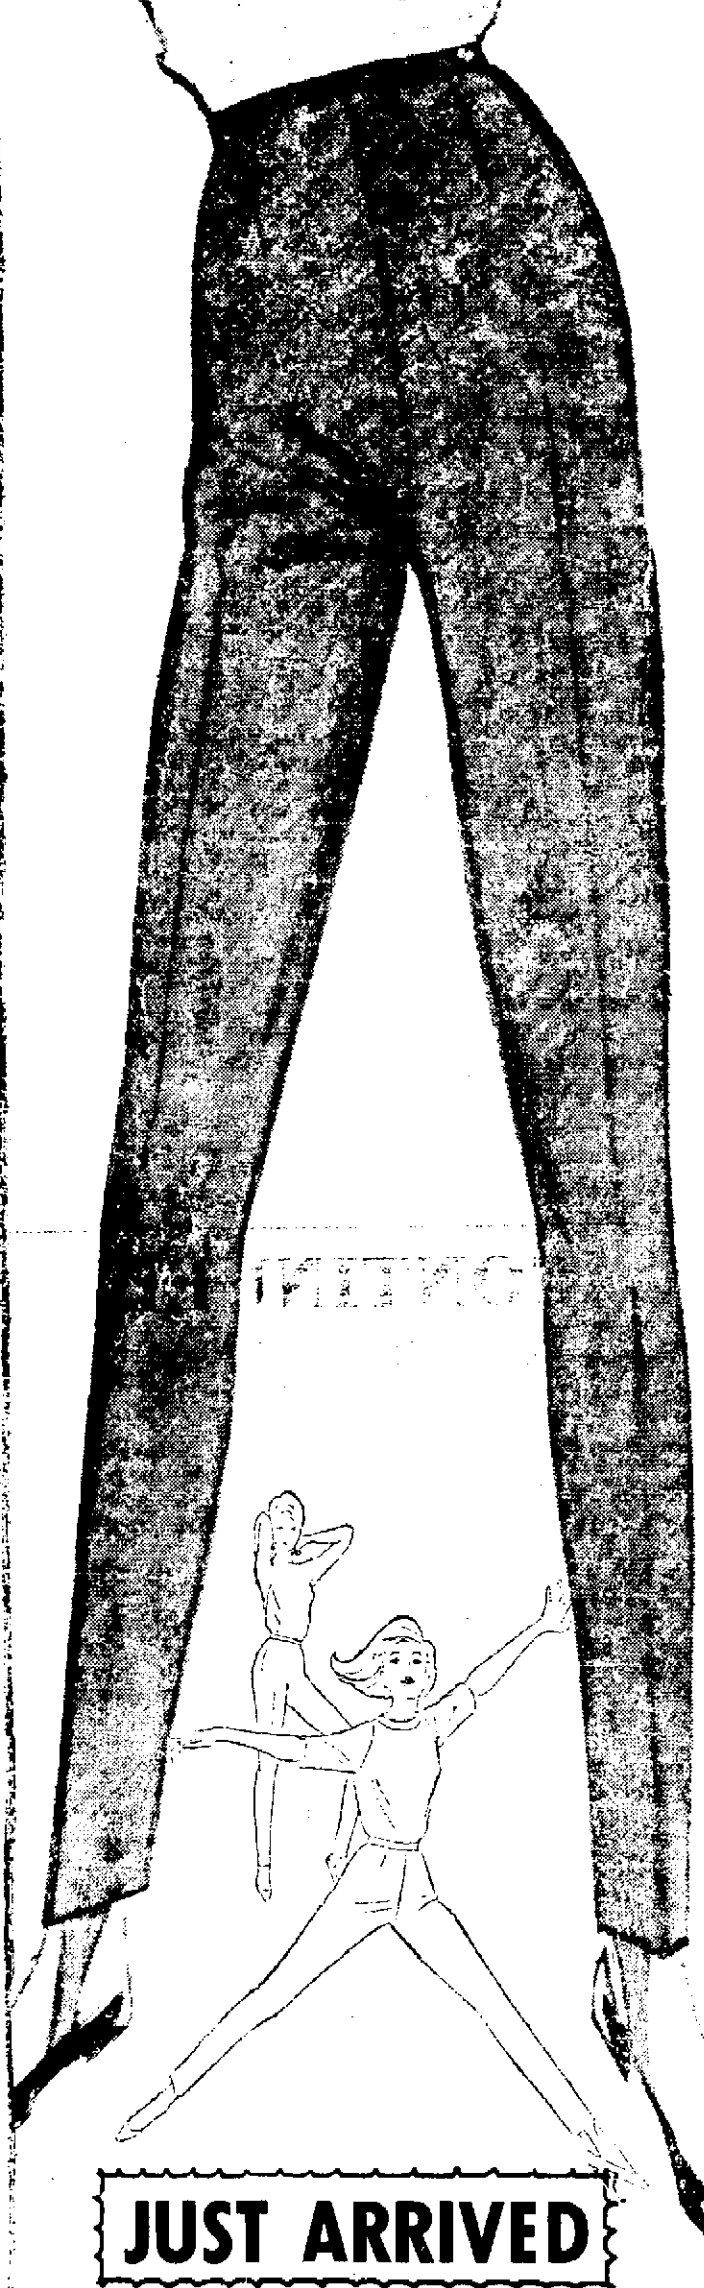

School Board President George Dobrea indicated the board was prepared to negotiate further, but remarked that there is only so much money available for salaries. He said he "thought our offer was a very fair one." The wage proposal approved Monday provides pay increases ranging from $450 to $951 a year with a minimum starting salary of $5,750.

Peterson Is Worth $9,000

Earlier this week the Warren County Salary Board voted a $1,000 annual pay raise to Robert R. Peterson, county planner, despite sharp protest on the part of Commissioner Blain M. Mead. The action received the support of Commissioners Lewis L. Crippen and D. H. Lay, along with County Treasurer Jack E. McCool. We fail to understand Mr. Mead's dissenting vote.

Two and a half years ago, in June of 1964, Mr. Mead made the motion for a vote that gave Robert Skinner (then county planner and predecessor to Mr. Peterson) an annual salary of $11,000. Mr. Skinner was later found unsuitable for the position by the planning Commission and released. At this time Mr. Peterson was promoted from the post of assistant planner to planner and has been making a salary of $8,000. With his education and experience, Peterson now qualifies as a planner who we know could be making a much higher salary elsewhere.

A check with the Department of Internal Affairs in Harrisburg revealed to us that nearby McKean County pays their planner $10,000 and an additional $9,300 for a planner three. (Mr. Peterson has no assistant.) Jefferson County pays from $10 to $12,000 for a planner; Carbon County $7,000 and $4,000 for an assistant;

Monroe County $10,500 and from $6 to $8,000 for a planner one.

The sum of $9,000 for Mr. Peterson seems little to pay for a man who has not only proven himself competent in his job, but in many of the important community endeavors he has undertaken.

It is interesting to note that while McKean County is paying $19,300 in salaries for two planners, Warren County's entire budget is $20,000 a year. Further, besides his job as planner, Peterson has taken over the additional task of serving as zoning officer in the county.

For the reasons mentioned here we fail to understand Mr. Mead's action this week. If he was willing to pay $11,000 for the same job over two years ago, why isn't he willing to pay $2,000 less now. And this isn't even taking into consideration the rise in the cost of living during this period.

We also fail to understand why a qualified county employee has to be turned into a football for a politician.

And we worry about the future of Warren County if we are going to have officials who have doubts on the need for organized planning. Much potential growth lies ahead for us and it will have to be spearheaded by progressive thinking.

Harrison Salisbury's Mission

(c) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—Harrison Salisbury's reports to the New York Times from Hanoi are being followed by officials and diplomats in Washington with the closest attention.

There are several reasons for this. First of all, the Communists are clearly in the midst of at least a tactical review of their military and may be even their political policy.

The Communist troops in Laos have been strangely quiet. Usually they increase their activity in November, but this winter they have not. Also there is some evidence that the organized units from North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, after a long series of defeats, have been hesitating to commit large units to battle and relying more on small guerrilla raids.

This may mean nothing more than a regrouping for larger battles to come. Western diplomats in Hanoi who have talked to Salisbury have reported to their governments that they see nothing as yet in Salisbury's inquiries to imply any significant shift in Hanoi's opposition to a negotiated settlement.

Yet one of the major problems in assessing the situation, even for Western diplomats in the North Vietnamese capital, is the difficulty of having even the most casual conversation with Hanoi officials, and this Salisbury has managed to do. He has spent several hours with Premier Pham Van Dong and with Nguyen Van Tien, a member of the National Liberation Front's Central Committee and its permanent representative in Hanoi.

They have told him of course, what they wanted him to report, and shown him only what they wanted him to see. It is known that the Eastern European Communists have been urging Hanoi for some time to step up their propaganda against the American bombing in the north, and the decision to grant Salisbury a visa to go there may be nothing more than a propaganda ploy, but we do not yet know.

The Communists do not always follow the traditional procedures of diplomacy. At the height of the Cuban missile crisis in October of 1962, the Soviet Embassy here passed a highly significant message to the United States government through John Scall of the American Broadcasting Company.

In fact, the first diplomatic break in the Soviet blockade of Berlin in 1949 came as a result of a series of questions sent by Kingsbury Smith of the Hearst newspapers to Joseph Stalin. Thus, the news reporter, without intending to do so, sometimes becomes the instrument as well as the correspondent of diplomatic information.

Salisbury has been criticized by some newspapers and periodicals for putting out Communist propaganda which the same newspapers and periodicals then published themselves. He has also been criticized by some officials for reporting Communist figures on the civilian bomb damage in North Vietnam, which is understandable, since he disclosed information the Johnson administration had concealed.

Most officials here, however, take a larger view of the Salisbury assignment. They criticized him for failing to distinguish in his first reports of the bomb damage between what he actually saw and what he was told by the Communists, but they concede he corrected that, and are now much more interested in his report that the North Vietnamese premier regards Hanoi's four peace aims as objectives of any negotiated settlement rather than as preconditions that must be met before any negotiations can take place.

Also, there may be much more to these conversations than has yet been disclosed. Nobody knows yet what private messages he may be carrying when he comes home. Transcripts of his long talks may have been kept and these will require much closer study than they have had so far. The significant element in the Stalin replies to Kingsbury Smith on lifting the Berlin blockade, for example, turned out to be not what Stalin said but on his failure to say anything about a key condition Moscow had always mentioned in the past.

In short, Harrison Salisbury has at least started a dialogue with Hanoi. It may lead nowhere, but he is the only American reporter who knows what they are saying in detail, and his enterprising adventure is not over yet.

Document Dodd Violations

WASHINGTON—The hullabaloo in the House over Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., has obscured the more subdued but more significant investigation of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., in the Senate.

For the case against Powell is Sunday School stuff compared to the evidence against Dodd. Senate investigators, following up the leads provided by this column, now have documented Dodd's apparent violation of at least two federal laws.

1. The Senator deposited in his personal bank accounts thousands of dollars contributed for his 1964 political campaign. Yet he neglected to report this income on his tax returns, though the law clearly states that political funds diverted to personal use must be declared as income.

2. Dodd accepted gifts, gratuities and outright cash from contractors and others whom he aided in Washington. It is against the law for a Senator to accept the slightest remuneration for helping a company get government contracts or for intervening before a federal agency on behalf of private interests.

Take the case of the Mite Corporation, a New Haven, Conn., firm, which makes teleprinters for the Navy. Dodd has gone to bat repeatedly for the company, appealing all the way to the White House for favorable action on contracts.

It is entirely proper for a Connecticut Senator to seek government business for a Connecticut company. He is forbidden, however, from accepting money for his help.

Yet on Sept. 18, 1964, Mite's president, Robert J. Blinken, showed up in the Senator's office with a sealed brown envelope for Dodd who, typically, had forgotten the appointment and had gone to Connecticut. His personal secretary, Marjorie Carpenter, phoned him in Connecticut to tell him about the envelope. He asked her to bring it to him.

She caught Allegheny Airlines flight 922, which left for Hartford at 3:45 P.M. the same day. When she turned over Blinken's envelope to the Senator, she says, he opened it, removed some cash and offered it to her to pay for travel expenses. She explained that she had purchased her ticket with a credit card.

Dodd then returned the money to the envelope, explaining it was a campaign contribution. No doubt Blinken considered it a political donation, which he had every right to give. However, Blinken's name did not appear on the contributors' list which Dodd, under Connecticut law, was required to file.

The list has now been removed from the state files and presumably destroyed. However, we took the precaution of copying down all the names and amounts before the records could be removed. Two witnesses are ready to testify that every name was carefully copied.

Mrs. Carpenter claims that Blinken phoned the office two or three other occasions to report he had money to contribute. She arranged appointments for him to meet the Senator in Connecticut but, of course, has no knowledge of what occurred at those meetings.

A source friendly to Dodd has acknowledged to this column that he was present when Blinken delivered the brown envelope. This source, who asked not to be identified, said he had no idea what the envelope contained but assumed it was technical information.

Blinken himself, contacted by this column, refused to comment.

There is verification in the Senator's files, however, of Blinken's generosity. During the 1964 campaign, Dodd prepared for his fund raisers a list of contractors whom he had helped.

At the bottom of the list was this notation: "Mite Corporation (Robert Blinken) no comment—more than generous."

Presumably, Dodd pocketed the money he received from Blinken, since it never showed up on the sworn list of campaign contributions. Thus the Senator accepted money from Blinken at the same time he was helping the company peddle its teleprinters to the government.

At first Dodd tried to persuade the Navy to purchase the printers without competitive bidding. After repeated calls to the Pentagon, Dodd received an apologetic note from Assistant Navy Secretary Kenneth Belieu, dated Jan. 31, 1964, saying Mite would have to compete for the contract.

"I am sorry I have to answer this way," Belieu wrote in longhand, "but feel I have no other choice. We checked with the Army and pursued the other questions that came out of our meeting, but the answers remained the same."

Belieu also explained to Blinken: "Experience has demonstrated that on an over-all basis savings of at least 25 per cent are realized when we change from noncompetitive to competitive purchasing of a particular item."

This turned out to be true with the Mite contract. For Blinken's company won the bid by cutting prices, thus saving the taxpayers thousands of dollars that would have gone to the company if Dodd had been more successful.

Grumbled Blinken in a March 19, 1964, letter to Dodd: "We were, of course, forced to resort to competitive bidding on the procurement we have been discussing and were the low bidder. Naturally, we would have preferred not to have been subjected to the bidding process which necessitated our proposing a price on this quantity which was less than what we consider equitable."

Dodd went right back to the Pentagon in subsequent negotiations to appeal for a better deal for Blinken. The Senator even wrote a letter to President Johnson and got a reply from Jack Valenti, then a White House aide: "I have requested the Secretary of Defense to assure that the Department of the Navy keeps his office closely advised on the progress of this action."

Meanwhile, Blinken had been passing money to Dodd.

That Junk Mail

WASHINGTON — The United States post office from all reports is going broke and I think I know the reason why. There is so much junk mail being sent out these days that the post office can't handle it. And the taxpayer who doesn't want the junk mail in the first place may have to pay more for his postage to make up the deficit.

I'm a reasonable man and I don't mind what the junk mail people do to me, but when they start flooding my kids with the stuff I get slightly upset.

There was a time when I came home at night and after going through the mail I would say to my 10-year-old daughter, Jennifer, "There's a letter here for you."

But now when I come home at night it is Jennifer who says to me, "There's a letter here for you somewhere." And she keeps the rest.

Children's Book Club.

Pretty soon Jennifer was being flooded with offers of free illustrated books in color of the Marquis de Sade's works, if she would buy the complete Lapland Encyclopedia for $180, payable at 25 cents a week.

After a terrible fight in which Jennifer accused me of retarding her education, we tore up the offers, which mattered not a bit to the Marquis de Sade Children's Book Club because they sold Jennifer's name and address to the Bach, Blues and Beatle Record Club.

Without my knowledge Jennifer became a B.B. and B. Club member and pretty soon she was getting bills for records that she couldn't pay for. I tried to cancel her club membership but was warned if I tried, the company would take our house away ("see fine print, chapter three paragraph four").

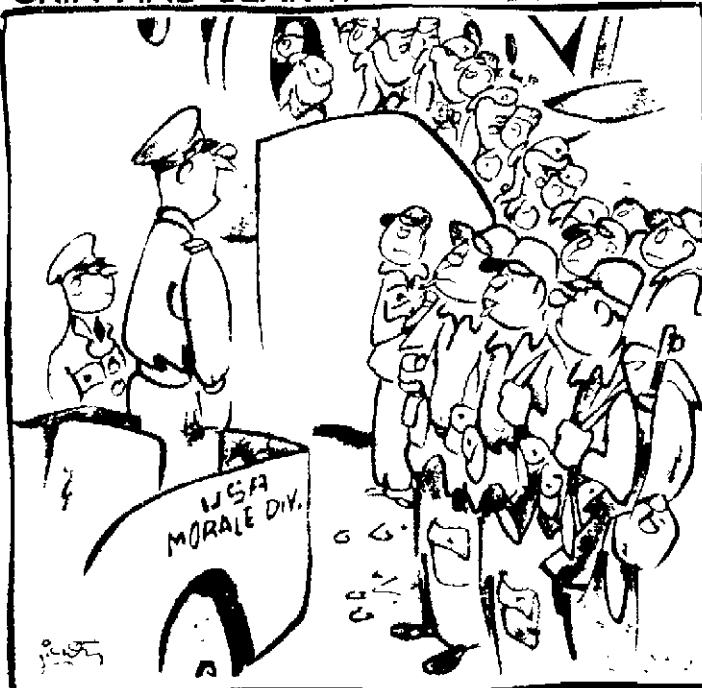

I guess I wouldn't have minded so much if the B.B. and B. Record Club hadn't passed on Jennifer's name and address to the Cereal of the Month Club which offered to send Jennifer a different cereal each month with a prize inside. Since there was a self-addressed envelope with the offer, Jennifer naturally joined without my consent.

The Cereal of the Month Club then sold Jennifer's name and address to the Frankenstein Mutual Fund set up especially for children.

From here on out I lost track of how many companies were corresponding with Jennifer. I do know it has got out of hand though, because just the other day Jennifer said she was thinking of hiring a secretary to help answer her mail.

Dragons and Knights Split on Court, Mat

Cagers Fall In Section Tilt, 59-45

By JOHN GANLEY
FRANKLIN — The Warren Dragons missed several opportunities to win as they dropped a 59-45 decision to the host Franklin Knights here last night. The game was the opener in Section II play for both teams.

Warren fell behind 5-0 in the first two minutes, but could have been ahead if several of their easy shots had fallen. Danny O'Neill, Bob Hunter and Jim Belchner all put shots on the rim, but they fell into the waiting hands of either Tim Law or Don Walters.

The Dragons played without the services of Steve Tundel. He had missed three days of school and didn't make the trip. Tim Law opened the scoring for the Knights with a layup. A couple seconds later, Dave Bierbach stole the ball and made the score 4-0. The Dragons finally hit the scoreboard on an O'Neill bucket.

Throughout the rest of the first period, the Dragons managed to stay in the game. Down by six with one minute left in the period, Walters upped the margin to eight. Rocky Burger dropped a set shot with four seconds left to give the Knights a 19-9 first period margin.

In the second canto, the hot hand of Bob Hunter kept the Dragons in the game again. He hit four straight shots during the period on his patented one-hander from the side. Scott Hunter had four points, Dan Krumm had two and O'Neill two as the Dragons outscored the Knights, 16-13 in the quarter.

Dave Bierbach sank a mid-court desperation shot to make a close five-point margin into seven at the intermission.

The Knights broke the game wide open in the third period. After the Dragons closed the gap to three points at 32-29, Bierbach went on a streak of five straight points, followed by four by Walters. During this period all the Dragons could manage was three points by Scott Hunter and one by Krumm.

The hot spell netted the Knights a 43-33 score at the end of three periods. Franklin showed its class in the final frame as they calmly waited for the Dragons to make the mistakes.

Bierbach, playing what coach Bob Irons called his best game of the year, scored nine of the Knights' final 16 points.

A big factor in the Knights' victory was the strong play of Butch Henderson. Although he scored only nine points, he collected ten steals.

Bright spots for the Dragons was the play of Dan Krumm and O'Neill. Krumm, inserted into the game in the second period, steadied the Dragon offense and did a fine job on defense. O'Neill had the job of bringing the ball up the court against the tough press used by the Knights.

High point man for the Dragons was Scott Hunter with 16; cousin Bob tallied 12 and O'Neill broke into double figures with 10. The Dragons hit only 11 of 32 field goals in the first half. From the foul line the Dragons were 7 of 12.

Franklin also had three men in double figures. Bierbach led the way with 22. Tim Law scored 13 and Walters had 10. The Knights hit on 15 of 30 foul shots, but turned in 23 field goals to 19 for the Dragons in the game.

In the preliminary, the Warren jayvees fell behind, 17-0, but managed to close the gap. The Franklin reserves won 53-44. Jim Cruickshank led the little Dragons with 16.

In that game, Mike Hackett fell and gashed his chin early in the second period. He was taken to the medical center where he had five stitches taken, then came back and dressed for the varsity contest.

Rally Gives 76ers Win In Overtime

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers overcame an 18-point third period deficit to defeat the Baltimore Bullets 121-115 in overtime in a National Basketball Association game last night.

The 76ers trailed until Luke Jackson hit a field goal with 4:36 remaining to take a 103-102 lead. The Bullets, however, surged ahead 108-103, with the help of two clutch baskets and a free throw by little Johnny Egan.

Philadelphia tied again at 109, but Don Ohl hooped a pair of free throws with 1:02 left to give the Bullets a 111-109 edge.

Jackson, however, came up with a key basket as he tied the score with 43 seconds remaining to send the game into overtime.

In the extra period, Chet Walker gave the 76ers a quick four-point edge with a pair of field goals. The Bullets never caught up as they were held to one field goal and a pair of free throws in the five-minute overtime.

Wally Jones led the Philadelphia comeback as he scored 28 points, including 12 for 17 from the field. Walker had 26.

AREA BASKETBALL ROUNDUP:

In the Allegheny Mountain League, Sheffield's usually potent offense was completely held at bay by powerful Brockway as the Rovers tripped the Wolverines 70-28.

The Eagles posted their first win in the league and their third in ten games.

Eisenhower now has a 1-5 record.

Youngsville opened a 13-5 first period lead but kept building the margin. At the half the score was 28-18. In the second half the Eagles scored 53 points to 16 for the Knights.

High scorer for the Eagles was Ron Knapp with 20 points. Milt Johnson tallied 18 for the Red and White while Gary Carter chipped in with 10.

The Eagles "big men" Carter and Knapp held the high scoring Bob Burlingame of the Knights to a mere nine points. Bill McFarland scored eight for the Blue and Gold and Allen Swanson pushed seven through the cords.

In the preliminary game the Youngsville junior varsity posted its first win of the year by downing the Little Knights by a 23-24 score.

Sheffield managed to make only eight of 72 shots from the field, 11 per cent, as they were soundly thrashed by the home-standing Brockway Rovers.

The Rovers quickly doubled the score on the Wolverines by moving to an 18-9 margin after one period. At the half the Rovers enjoyed a commanding 28-15 lead.

Sheffield failed to show any improvement in the second half as they were outscored 42-13. Besides being poor from the field the Wolverines managed to sink only 12 of 25 fouls as compared to 15 of 17 for the Rovers.

High point men for the Rovers were Chuck Grubbs with 14 and Pat Faruso and Tom Green with 12 each.

Matmen Take 28-23 Win on Team Effort

By LARRY G. STEELE
Sports Editor

Warren's wrestling team opened Section II competition with a 28-23 victory over Franklin here last night, but it took a real team effort and several clutch performances on the way to the triumph.

In a repeat of last year's match on the Knights' mats, the Dragon grapplers didn't clinch the victory until the 180-pound bout. The Blue and White was leading 23-18 when Darrell Pusateri of the Dragons pinned Franklin's Bob Adams in the second period to put the match out of reach for the visitors.

Not to be overlooked, however, were the team points garnered by Frank Cataldo, Ray Lowe and Bob Thompson. Cataldo gained revenge for a defeat to Franklin's Pat Scurry in last year's Section IV tournament finals by taking a 7-5 decision on riding time. Lowe and Thompson both came up with their first victories of the season to help the Blue and White cause.

In addition to Thompson and Pusateri, the Sorensen brothers, Dana and Doug, also registered falls for the Dragons. Jim Mead also figured in the scoring by wrestling to a draw in the 127-pound match.

Bob "Smookey" Seaguest nailed Jeff Judson of the Knights after 1:03 of the opening period in an 88-pound exhibition bout prior to the varsity competition.

Cataldo put the first points on the scoreboard for the locals in the featured match of the evening, 95-pounds. Countering a potential takedown with a good defensive move, Cataldo took Scurry to the mat with 57 seconds left in the opening period, but gave a point back when the Knight grappler escaped.

In the second stanza, the Dragon captain went ahead 5-1 on an escape and takedown, then surrendered another escape point before the end of the period. Scurry switched after a minute of the last period and trailed 5-4, but Cataldo pulled ahead again on his second escape of the bout.

The frantic Scurry registered a tying takedown at the final buzzer, but Cataldo had collected one minute, 15 seconds of riding time to gain the decision.

Dana Sorensen put Warren ahead 8-0 in the 103-pound match with a pin in the last second of the second stanza. Sorensen handled Franklin's Jerry Dunlop easily to build up an 8-0 lead and had him in trouble twice before registering the fall.

At 112, Warren's Brad Waxman trailed at the end of the first period, 2-1 and a second period escape coupled with two minutes of riding time gave Steve Daniels of the Knights a 5-1 decision.

Warren surged ahead 13-3 in the 120-pound match on Doug Sorensen's pin after 40 seconds of the middle period. Sorensen notched a first period takedown on Franklin's Jim Monarch, then turned him on his back for five valuable team points. The victory was Sorensen's fourth against one loss this season.

After a no-takedown first period at 127, Warren's Mead scored a second period reversal on Fred Miller, then the Knight matman escaped and took Mead down to lead 3-3 going into the last period. Mead stayed with his man for the entire two minutes to gain one riding point and the bout ended in a 3-3 draw, giving each team two points and the scoreboard read 15-5.

Steve Kaiser fell behind 6-2 against Jim VanTassel of the Knights after two periods of the 133-pound match, then fell into a pinning combination in the second period and Franklin inched to within five points of Warren 15-10.

Lowe, in the finest match he's wrestled this season, gave the Dragons a little breathing room at 138 by blanking Steve Nelms, 6-0. A first period takedown, second period reverse and nearly five minutes of riding time gave Lowe his first varsity decision.

Mike Maines of the Dragons ran into defending District X champ Wayne Graham in the 145-pound match-up and was caught in a cradle after one minute of the third period. The fall closed the scoring gap again, 18-15.

Franklin tied the team score at 18-18 when Franklin's Jim Foster defeated Corky Greenwood, 7-5. Greenwood led 4-0 at one point in the second stanza, but Foster kept piling up points in the last three minutes and the bout ended in a 5-5 tie. Riding time gave the Franklin grappler a 7-5 victory.

Thompson came up with one of the big triumphs of the night for the Webbermen at 165. The Dragon junior mauled Franklin's Gary Baker for five and one half minutes to build up a 9-0 advantage, then referee Bill Brabender finally slapped the mat with 30 seconds remaining and Warren went back in front, 23-18.

The Dragons needed a decision at 180 to cement the win, and Pusateri went one better, Pusateri was in front 4-0 when he turned Bob Adams of the Knights over after 30 seconds of the second period to register a fall.

Warren heavyweight Lee Bryan, showing signs of his vast improvement since the beginning of the season, nearly pinned Franklin's Mike Baker in the opening period after notching a takedown. Baker moved to within one point, 5-4 in the second period on a reversal and predicament, then pinned the Warren sophomore midway through the final two minutes.

In junior varsity action, the little Dragons came away with a 20-3 triumph over the Franklin jayvees in an abbreviated match. Larry Johnson (112), Rod Littlefield (127) and Craig White (145) took decisions for Warren. Bruce Cummings (130) and Joe Kellogg (138) notched pins. Six matches were forfeited to the Dragons when the Knights failed to come up with a full team.

Warren wrestles again next Friday, hosting Erie Strong Vincent.

Colleges to Battle Pro's TV Schedule

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The nation's colleges plan to push for federal legislation which would forbid the pros from televising their games on Friday nights and Saturdays.

"These are periods traditionally reserved for high schools and colleges," James J. Corbett, athletic director at Louisiana State University and a member of the NCAA television Committee, said yesterday.

"I think our committee should take a very strong stand on this subject and carry the proposal to the committee on professional football relations."

The latter committee is headed by Bill Reed, commissioner of the Big Ten Conference.

The television problem is one of several to be explored here this weekend at the annual convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and its affiliated groups.

Some 3,000 officials, administrators and coaches will take part in the meetings, formally opening today.

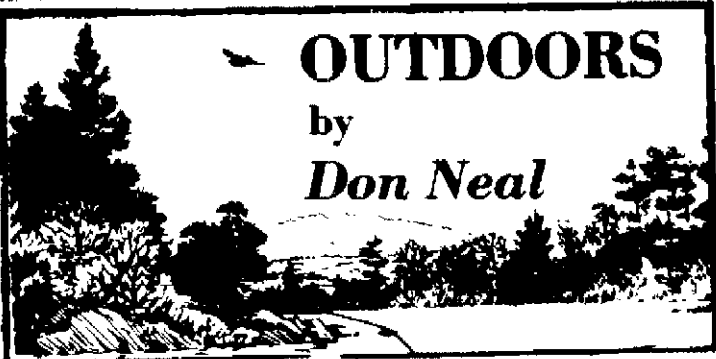

The American Association of College Baseball Coaches and the U.S. Track Coaches Association have been holding preliminary sessions for two days.

The colleges and professional baseball reached an agreement yesterday that, except in certain situations, a college player cannot be signed to a contract until after his senior year.

The agreement, effective Jan. 1, is intended to end raids. The exceptions cover players who have reached 21 years of age, completed their athletic eligibility, quit college (a 120-day hands off period) or being dropped for scholastic reasons.

The television question is a knotty one and one not solved by the bill passed in Congress this year exempting the profes-

Far Away Frontier

In speaking of the influence sophistication has had on the modern-age American, Bruce Catton has said, "Losing the frontier, we lost our strength." It was a bold statement, and one likely to turn the thoughts of the average persons backward to the historical past in an effort to learn what qualities our forefathers possessed that is lacking in the present generations.

The experience is enlightening. For remembering that the "Catton" frontier in Warren County would date back at least one hundred years, one's first thought recalls the famed Bucktails that built river-rafts of Buckaloons timber and floated down the Allegheny to be inducted for service in the Civil War. A little further back were the famed lumbermen who cut away the great white pine forests and floated them to markets at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis, and New Orleans.

And to the rugged crews of these far-ranging rafts who walked their way back home to be ready for the next rafting season on the river. Or even back to the dawn of the 19th century when the first white men were forging their way into the county's unending wilderness to people its pioneer communities.

Then on further back to the professional hunters and trappers who coursed the game trails of this wilderness and mingled with the native Indians at campfire and rendezvous. These were the men of strength, the true frontiersmen.

While not among the first of the professional hunters or trappers to make their way to the valley of the Allegheny River, Phil Tome, the founder of the village of Corydon, was by far the best known.

It was in the early 1800's that Tome, following an elk trail that led down from a high plateau along the banks of Kinzua Creek, first came to the Allegheny. He liked the area and returned a few years later to build a cabin near the Morrison settlement on Kinzua Flats.

A year later he moved north along the river, further into the Indian country, and settled near Cold Springs (near Red House, N.Y.) where he remained for the next six or seven years.

It was while living at this location that Tome became active as an interpreter and advisor to Chief Cornplanter and Chief Governor Blacksnake. And it was this activity that finally led him to build the cabin that established the village of Corydon, quite close to Cornplanter's home village of Jennesadagah.

Tome demonstrated the strength of the frontiersman throughout his lifetime as an active hunter.

Following the customs of the professional hunter, he spent the early months of each season wandering the backcountry in search of wolf and panther scalps as an out and out bounty hunter. By the time the warmer months of summer arrived, he had tramped his way to some distant bounty office, collected his fees, and was back at home to hunt the nearby forests for fresh meat and spear fish from the river.

He continued these activities, too, as summer waned, the leaves turned, and the cold winds of late November promised the heavy tracking snows that would lead him to where the elk herds yarded and the white-tail deer found shelter in the hemlock thickets.

For when the tracking snows would reach a proper depth, Tome would be off to the high plateaus that lay at the headwaters of the Clarion, the Sinnemahoning, the Kettle, the upper Allegheny, and even those mountain streams that flowed down to his former home at Slate Run on the banks of Pine Creek.

These were the regions where the elk herds were largest, deer most plentiful and an occasional bearskin could be added to the bundle of furs he would eventually take to market.

Moving by day and sleeping in hastily-built brush shelters at night, Tome would spend months on the frigid mountaintops skinning out the meat of his kills and freezing it for storage. Or perhaps scraping the fat from the hides of the worthwhile animals to increase their value. The scream of the panther and the howling of the wolves helped to break the monotony of this lonely life.

Finally, when the snow was melting and the streams were full, he would lug the results of his winter's hunt to the nearest streamside. There a raft would be built and his booty loaded on. Soon, he was on his way to market, Harrisburg if the stream flowed east, Pittsburgh if the stream flowed west.

There was no time to loiter, he knew. For it would be a long walk home, and he had to be there in time for the wolf and panther scalping.

In losing the frontier did we lose our strength? I wonder.

Treasurer, Agents Sell Fish Licenses

HARRISBURG (AP) — Fish licenses for 1967 are now available from county treasurers and licensed issuing agents, the State Fish Commission reported Thursday.

Cost of the new license is $5.20. The 1966 licenses expired the end of the year.

SIGN OF THE TIMES

This shoulder patch, being issued by Hunter Investor supporter in New York's Chautauqua County, is the first local sign of hunters trying to maintain pheasant hunting through their own efforts. Backers of the plan hope that individual hunters will join the organization and pay $2 for the insignia. The money collected will be used to finance a pheasant stocking program. The group will meet January 19 at the Carroll Rod and Gun Club, near Frewsburg. Featured speaker will be Dr. Ward M. Sharp, ecologist and upland gamebird specialist with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Gannon Meets Youngstown Tonight; Record Now 4-4

Gannon College's young, inexperienced and injury-riddled Knights jump from the trying pan into the fire when they face Youngstown University tonight and then tangle with Steubenville next Wednesday.

The Knights, beset recently by a rash of injuries, have compiled a 4-4 record to date while both Youngstown and Steubenville were 7-2 before games late this week.

Actually, the Knights' troubles began before the season started. Already lacking height and experience in the frontcourt, Coach John (Denny) Bayer lost letterman Joe Glassmacher, a 6-5 rebounder with lacerations suffered in a fall. He has not returned as yet.

Guard Ben Wiley, a three-year letterman and the best scorer returning from last year's team, has been bothered by bad knees and his effectiveness has been limited.

Then Cal Graham, Gannon's leading scorer with 417.4 average after seven games, came up with a torn cartilage and missed the Belmont Abbey. Just when he will return is doubtful. And then, Ron Johnson, a 6-6 Freshman who was beginning to show great promise, suffered a laceration above his eye against Abbey. He is expected to be ready for the Youngstown and Steubenville games.

Thus, Bayer has been forced to using two Freshmen in the Knight lineup. Johnson and Larry Daly, a 6-0 guard, are the first-year men who will probably join Wiley, 6-6 Don Rumsinski and 6-2 Bob Roffit in the Knight starting group.

Wiley is the second highest scorer with an even 12 per game average while Rumsinski has upped his average to 11.7 per game. Sam Iacino, a 5-10 Freshman from Farrell, Pa., has a 10.3 scoring average.

Iacino has been used frequently by Coach Bayer and Jim Lee, another 6-6 Freshman, is also scheduled to see action. Lee came in for Johnson against Belmont Abbey and grabbed eight rebounds.

Youngstown has beaten Alliance (92-76) while Gannon lost 76-61, Walsh, Texas Southern (83-75) while Gannon lost 65-64, San Francisco State, Hiram, Illinois Wesleyan (97-66) while Gannon lost 62-57 in overtime, and Baldwin Wallace. They have lost to Muskingum and Philadelphia Textile and will meet St. Vincent on Jan. 5.

Coach Dom Rosselli has four starters back from last year's Penguin team which earned a berth in the NCAA Playoffs. The team's leading scorers are guards John McElroy at 19.9 and Joe Negro at 16.4. Underneath the Penguins use tall 6-6 Chuck Swako, 6-6 Joe LaVolpa, 6-7 Charles Rowan and 6-4 Frank Fitz with 6.9 Willie Teague in reserve.

Although Youngstown holds a 20-10 series lead between the two schools, the series in the past five seasons has been one of the best in small college circles. Since the 1961-62 season, the teams have met eleven times with Gannon winning five and Youngstown six. The Penguins won all three games in 1961-62, with the teams splitting in 1962-63, 1963-64 and 1964-65 before Gannon came on to win both of last year's games, 72-70 at Youngstown and 71-69 in the historic six overtimes at Gannon.

Steubenville will carry its 7-2 record into games against Alliance on Jan. 5 and Bellarmine on Jan. 9 before meeting Gannon.

The Barons have clipped Wheeling, St. Vincent, Texas Southern, Philadelphia Textile, California State, DePaul and Grove City while losing to Quincy College and Marshall.

New coach Don McLane has lettermen Allyn Curry, Walt Osborne (6-5), Jim Quinn and Paul Rue in the starting lineup with 6-3 Dan Leake and 6-10 Frank Dananay also seeing considerable action. 6-6 John Salak a Freshman, is also available.

It will be a return to the site where he was head coach for four seasons for Gannon coach Denny Bayer.

Steubenville has beaten the Knights four straight times and now leads in the series 17-9. Gannon has beaten Detroit College, the University of Buffalo, San Francisco State and Belmont Abbey. They have lost to Texas Southern, Alliance, Tennessee State and Illinois Wesleyan.

San Diego May Get NBA Team

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The commissioner of the National Basketball Association says he will recommend that a franchise be awarded to San Diego for the 1967-68 season.

The commissioner, Walter Kennedy, said Thursday that the association's expansion committee could award a 12th franchise to San Diego sometime this month.

"I can't guarantee they'll approve my recommendations," Kennedy said, "because many of our clubs are located in the East and all of the owners aren't aware of San Diego's remarkable growth."

Kennedy said a San Diego group led by Robert Breitbard has made "the best presentation we've ever had" for a franchise.

Breitbard could house a professional team in his new sports arena. His new Western Hockey League team has an average attendance of 8,300 there this year.

QUARTERBACKS CARTER, SOUTHBALL DUEL AGAIN

South Favorites in Senior Bowl

By RON SPEER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Virgil Carter of Brigham Young and Terry Southall of Baylor renew their all-star rivalry today in the Senior Bowl, with both passing experts yet to prove themselves in post-season play.

Carter, the nation's total offense leader last fall with 2,545 yards running and passing, will direct the North in the nationally televised football game which starts at 2 p.m., EST.

Southall, Baylor bridegroom who hit on 173 throws for 1,986 yards for the Bears, will direct the South, which hasn't lost in this play-for-pay battle since 1960.

Both Carter and Southall were starting quarterbacks two weeks ago in the Blue-Gray game, and both came out with questionable credentials. Carter was benched in the second half during a North rally which carried the Yankees to victory with the help of a pair of intercepted Southall passes.

Southall and Carter both have been on target during practice this week and both have top receivers.

All-America flanker Ray Perkins of Alabama probably will be Southall's top target, along with Tennessee's Johnny Mills and Dick Redding of Northwestern Louisiana.

Carter will be throwing to Epie Barney of Iowa State, Jim Greth of Arizona and Kenny Last and Chet Anderson, both of Minnesota.

Both teams boast sturdy defenses, with All-America Bubba Smith of Michigan State heading up the North line and All-Americas George Patton of Georgia and Paul Naumoff of Tennessee leading the South defenses as linebackers.

The North has a big weight advantage but the South is a five-point favorite in the 18th annual battle which is expected to attract a sellout crowd of 40,605.

The South drew heavily from the Southeastern Conference, with eight SEC players on the starting lineup. The Big Eight, with seven starters, and the Big Ten with six dominate the northern squad.

Both teams are expected to pass a lot, with North Coach

Norm Van Brocklin of the Minnesota Vikings and South Coach Otto Graham of the Washington Redskins using their workbooks to polish the aerial attack.

The North may have an edge on the ground with fullback Ray McDonald, a 248-pound block-buster from Idaho, and 220-pound halfback Harry Wilson of Minnesota available for running chores. McDonald led the nation in rushing with 1,329 yards last fall.

The South's running duties will be handled by Jim Bohl of New Mexico State, Billy Masters of Louisiana State, Doug Cunningham of Mississippi and Bill Tucker of Tennessee A&I.

The South, which won 27-18 a year ago, leads the series 11 to 5, with one tie.

Under special rules designed to keep the score close, a team nine or more points behind can receive the kickoff after scoring.

The game will be televised by NBC. Winning players will get $1,000 each and the losers $750 each.

Detroit Lions Fire Coach Harry Gilmer

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions fired head coach Harry Gilmer yesterday after two losing seasons.

The National Football League club, owned by William Clay Ford, announced the firing after Gilmer's team finished the season with a dismal 4-9-1 record. The 1965 season saw a 6-7-1 record.

Gilmer had one year to go on his three-year contract, and the Lions said Gilmer would be paid in full for it.

Ford said no successor had been picked but that Joe Schmidt, former Lions linebacker and last season as assistant coach, was under consideration.

The former Alabama quarterback, who played as a pro for the Washington Redskins and the Lions, came to Detroit from an assistant's job at Minnesota.

Last year he drew criticism from both fans and players. In the last game, a 28-16 loss to the Minnesota Vikings, Gilmer was bombarded with snowballs from the stands.

Twice he was serenaded with "bye, bye, Harry," by fans at Lions games.

Under Gilmer, the Lions turned toward youth and let go a number of long-time standbys, including fullback Nick Pietrosante and end Sam Williams. Both left Detroit with critical blasts at Gilmer.

After the last game of 1966, a 28-16 loss to Minnesota, Ford said he would carefully weigh all the factors before making any announcement about the coach.

Ford made the announcement after Gilmer returned from a Southern scouting trip.

"It always is an unpleasant step to take," Ford said. "However, my goal is to field a winning football team in Detroit and I reluctantly have come to the conclusion that our chances would be better with a change of head coaches."

Both Detroit newspapers, the afternoon News and morning Free Press, said Thursday that Schmidt had been given a five-year contract and had already signed. They quoted sources close to the club.

Gilmer was paid $35,000 a year.

Ford denied that Schmidt had been signed.

"Joe is definitely under consideration," he said. "I have discussed the situation with him recently. We plan to confer again when he returns from Miami after the NFL playoff bowl game this Sunday."

Ford said no decision would be made on the status of Gilmer's assistants until a new head coach is named.

Papa Bear Sees Close Super Bowl

CHICAGO (AP)—The American Football League generally and the Kansas City Chiefs particularly got a surprising boost yesterday from the patriarch of the National Football League, owner-coach George Halas of the Chicago Bears.

Halas, 72, one of the NFL's founding fathers in 1920, predicted victory, "but closer than anyone else seems to believe," by the NFL champion Green Bay Packers over the AFL title-bearing Chiefs in their Super Bowl game Jan. 15.

Few NFL leaders held the AFL with greater scorn than Halas when the rival AFL — now merged with the NFL — began operation in 1960.

But Papa Bear, a man with strong opinions in the program he helped lead through impecunious years, now concedes that the seven-year-old AFL has remedied its most glaring early weakness, defensive play. "Whatever difference existed between the two leagues was defense," said Halas. "This difference has tightened up. I watched, on TV, Kansas City defeat Buffalo for the AFL title and I simply don't believe that disparity between the defenses exists any longer."

"That league (AFL) has emphasized defense in the last few years. R. showed in that title game at Buffalo."

"The single, significant reason the Green Bay-Kansas City playoff at Los Angeles is going to be much closer than many expect is that the Chiefs came up with their tightest defense of the year in a game that meant so much to them against Buffalo."

Halas also expressed surprise that Green Bay's forte, defense, was challenged so thoroughly by Dallas, before the Packers won the NFL title, 34-27.

"Just like everybody else, I couldn't believe it," said Halas, whose Bears (5-7-2) lost to Green Bay (17-0) and then only 13-6 in regular NFL play.

Starr Views Chiefs Films, Has Respect

By JAMES R. POLK
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr went to the movies Thursday to watch the Kansas City Chiefs and came away with both respect and a couple of ideas.

The quarterback of the Green Bay Packers was more willing to talk about the Chiefs' strengths, though, than any weaknesses.

"They make very few mistakes on defense, and as a result anything you get, you earn," said Starr.

The National football League's most valuable player watched game films of Kansas City on defense for the first time Thursday in preparing for the Super Bowl showdown with the American League titlists Jan. 15.

The mild-spoken Alabamian singled out the ability of the Chiefs' defensive tackles and the speed of their linebackers. He rejected any suggestion that the defensive secondary of AFL teams, including Kansas City, is weaker than NFL pass defenses.

Sonny, Money and Merger

(c) New York Times News Service
NEW YORK — The culmination of it all will be the Super Bowl at Los Angeles a week from tomorrow, a football game that once was no more than an idle dream. It will bring into violent collision the champions of the two pro leagues, the Green Bay Packers and the Kansas City Chiefs. Although the meeting will have the outward appearance of unrestrained warfare to an ultimate degree, it actually will represent a peaceful coexistence of sorts.

How did bitter feudists—they were of Hatfield and McCoy or Montague and Capulet dimensions—get together in uneasy amity? What forced the reluctant wedding of the National and American leagues? The union of the two came without warning and with startling suddenness last June. Not until late October, however, did it receive the Congressional blessing it needed.

The principal answer to those questions was supplied earlier this week by the American Broadcasting Company in a deft documentary that Howard Cosell produced with journalistic competence. He pointed with unerring accuracy to Sonny Werblin, owner of the New York Jets, as the unwitting catalyst of it all.

As a matter of fact, the video show was titled, "Shotgun Marriage: Sonny, Money and Merger." Although not all the ramifications are detailed, the basics are there. And the most basic of all reasons rests exclusively with David A. Werblin.

The American Football League had been floundering badly, making not the slightest dent in the enormous popularity of the solidly entrenched National Football League. For one thing, the A.F.L. was without the anchor it needed in New York. The mismanaged Titans were a joke and practically no one went to the decrepit Polo grounds to watch these handomies in action. It was Werblin who came to the rescue.

He took over the bankrupt Titans, rechristened them the Jets and gave them a purpose. He regarded his team as "a live, young, vibrant factor in the entertainment world."

No one knew the entertainment world better than Sonny, a hard-driving and successful agent who brought riches to many of the most famous names in stage, screen and television.

"The best theater in the world," he philosophized, "isn't worth a damn until you put something on that stage."

So he put someone on his stage. He signed Joe Namath, the Alabama quarterback, for a bonus purported to be $400,000 and then Sonny exploited these fancy figures to the full like the master showman he is. With this one gesture he saved the Jets, saved the A.F.L., and set the wheels spinning inexorably along the road to merger.

Bidding for untold talent by the two leagues became so outrageous that Namath's bonus was soon outdistanced by such as Donnie Anderson of the Packers, and rookies who never made teams were getting a quarter of a million dollars. Meanwhile, resentful veterans, who already had proved their worth, were becoming discontent and looking for escape. Some played out their contracts so that they'd be free to make new deals.

Roman Gabriel of the Rams signed with Oakland in the other league for 1967. Pete Gogolak of Buffalo already had crossed over to the Giants and rumors were strong that Mike Ditka of the Bears and John Brodie of the 49ers were on the verge of changing allegiance.

Art Modell, owner of the Cleveland Browns, frankly pinpointed the reason for the merger in an interview on the documentary.

"Werblin established a new market level," he said. "He raised prices until they had reached economic suicide."

"Success on the playing field," said Tex Schramm, president of the Dallas Cowboys, "was beginning to rest on the ability to pay large sums of money. When you get to that, you no longer have a sport."

"Morale was reaching a low ebb as regards salaries," said Vince Lombardi in his dual role of general manager and coach of Green Bay.

What it boils down to is the fact that Werblin's well-publicized deal with Namath set in motion forces that subsequently began to get out of control. There was only one way to end it, to get out of control. The N.F.L. swallowed its supercilious pride and the A.F.L., overanxious for recognition as an equal, joined together under the overall banner of Pete Roselle as the commissioner for both leagues.

It was something of a shotgun marriage and the Super Bowl is the first offspring. The documentary opened and closed with shots of the Los Angeles Coliseum, site of the initial interleague game. There would be no such game, though, if it were not for Sonny, Money and Merger.

FOR PAST WEEK

County News Review

This is an election year, and the first week of 1967 brought home that fact with two developments: county commissioners D. H. Lay and Blain Mead exchanged verbal fire over a salary increase for the county's planning officer, and two Warrenites announced their intentions to run for the office of commissioner.

The controversy over the $1,000 salary increase for Robert Peterson (from $8,000 to $9,000) broke out Wednesday after the county salary board approved the raise by a 3-1 vote.

Dissenting was Mead, who called the action "too much of an increase, that's all. The office just isn't worth that kind of money."

Lay supported the increase by saying Peterson "is probably the lowest-paid planner in Pennsylvania for counties of comparable size."

The battle went outside of the lines of the issue of the raise itself and drifted into an exchange of insults between the two commissioners. Lay said Mead worked at his office less than 40 hours a month in four months' time and added that Mead earned "$21 per hour for the time he was at the courthouse during November."

Mead, in reply, said, "Probably his wife figured it out for him." Mead said he would have more to say in reply to Lay in the months ahead. "I'm hoping May 16 will settle it," Mead said of the pay increase issue. May 16 is the Republican primary. Both Mead and Lay are Republicans.

Two Warrenites announced their candidacy for county commissioner in the Republican primary. James Blomquist, a retired businessman active in civic groups, said he hopes to promote the general welfare of all of Warren County. W. Robert Walsh, formerly editor of the Warren County Observer and now in private business, said he felt his experience gained through 30 years of reporting local events made him qualified for public office.

Other aspects of county government were in the headlines this week. The State Department of Public Welfare said in Harrisburg that Warren County relief costs soared from $25,431 in September to $30,118 in October. The number of recipients went from 385 to 537. It left 1.1 per cent of the county's population on relief. The biggest increase was in old-age assistance, where the number of recipients went from 112 to 238.

William Karns, the county surplus food director, made his year-end report, which listed 3,583 families as recipients. The total number of persons receiving the food was 11,878 — about 20 per cent of the county's total population. Of the total, 2,837 persons in 871 families were receiving public assistance grants.

Warren County's year-end liquid fuels tax report listed $94,108 returned to the county from the Commonwealth during 1966. The money was in turn appropriated to boroughs and townships throughout the county. The funds are used by boroughs and townships for road and bridge repairs.

Warren's YMCA on Thursday announced the awarding of contracts to firms for construction of the second phase of the Y's renovation project. Work is expected to begin this month, with completion set for late summer.

The extended Medicare program for nursing homes brought the prediction that nursing home rates in Warren County will be increased if the homes apply for participation. Mrs. Hazel Barley, of the Barley Nursing Home in North Warren, said she had forwarded an application and her facility has been inspected. Approval is late by about two weeks, she said. Mrs. Barley pointed out that she has not made a final decision whether or not to accept the Medicare program. She said she feels the increase the Medicare program would demand would bring hardship to those in her home who are not eligible for the federal benefits.

Warren County School District officials received word from the State Department of Public Instruction that the selected site for the Allegheny Valley Elementary School near Clarendon has been approved. The school will be located on the old Pennzill property. Dr. Thomas K. Barratt made the disclosure Thursday.

Accidents were at a low ebb during the week. The most serious happened Tuesday in Warren borough, when Susan E. Mesler of Youngsville was injured. The accident involved four vehicles and a tree and left the Youngsville woman with possible internal injuries. By the end of the week, she still was hospitalized at Warren General Hospital.

The county register and recorder's office tallied the marriage and divorce statistics for 1966. The announcement Tuesday gave the total divorces as 104. Marriage licenses issued were 435 for Warren County residents and couples from throughout the surrounding areas. The licenses total do not give an accurate picture of how many Warren County couples were wed, since numerous couples come here for licenses from other counties and from New-York State.

At the end of the week, Dr. Robert Israel of Warren State Hospital said his facility will continue to treat persons committed as alcoholics, although the state's new mental health law makes no special provision for such treatment. Dr. Israel said past procedures for committing alcoholics through court orders will be followed this year. The hospital head said the hospital's program has been "considerably successful" in the past and will be continued for that reason.

North Vietnam at this critical moment has good reason to weigh seriously the advisability of negotiation with the United States.

There is a hint that it is probing and jockeying for position. Its latest announcement was so brief as to suggest the Communist regime in Hanoi was involved in debate on the question.

Hanoi has one outstanding reason to be interested now in talking. It involves Red China, whose pressure on North Vietnam has been obvious.

Peking has violently opposed even the idea of talks short of total U.S. surrender in advance. Hanoi sees — and undoubtedly dislikes — a prospect of being overhelped by China. Chinese military technicians could swamp North Vietnam; China, a traditional enemy, could one day smother the Vietnamese with "volunteers."

China's leaders, preoccupied with a political convulsion at home, seem in a poor position to intervene. If Hanoi is going to do anything about its unenviable position, now would be the time, before China recovers her balance.

A key to the door to negotiations may lie in the proposal by U.N. Secretary-General U Thant for an end to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. Informed observers in Moscow, for example, say they are convinced that if the United States accepted the U.N. official's proposal, Hanoi would be willing to talk about a cease-fire. This also would permit Moscow to bring its influence to bear in seeking an end to a situation which endangers the peace of all Asia.

There is a credibility gap in this, too, however, since Moscow officially professes to doubt that the United States really wants to negotiate.

A word from Hanoi could break the ice jam.

LONDON—Prime Minister Harold A. Wilson reshuffled his government last night to bring in some younger men and to switch the jobs of many junior ministers.

What was probably the most important change moved Fred Mulley, now minister of aviation, to the foreign office as joint minister of state. The aviation ministry is being absorbed by the ministry of technology.

At the foreign office Mulley will be joint minister of state under the foreign secretary, George Brown. He will have responsibility for economic and European affairs, especially the crucial issue of Britain's relations with the European Common market.

George Thomson, who has dealt with common market matters as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, loses that courtesy title to become joint minister with Mulley. He will concentrate on American and Far Eastern problems.

These positions at the foreign office are not in the cabinet. But they are of major importance, particularly as Wilson begins his explorations for a possible British application to join the common market.

In the cabinet there will be one new—or rather resuscitated face—as a result of the changes. Patrick Gordon Walker replaces Douglas Houghton as minister without portfolio. He will chair numerous cabinet committees, dealing especially with new plans for the social services.

Two old friends and supporters of Wilson's were deprived of their seats in the cabinet but will remain as ministers.

Fred Lee, now colonial secretary, will have the title of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster with responsibilities in the ministry of economic affairs. The colonial office has been absorbed into the commonwealth office. Arthur Bottomley, minister of overseas development, keeps that job but without a place in the cabinet. He was commonwealth secretary during the opening months of the Rhodesian crisis.

Altogether, the changes made by the prime minister did not amount to a drastic reshaping of the government.

Government sources took the view that the prime minister's main object in this reshuffle was to broaden the experience of some able junior ministers. This, it was said, could pave the way for their promotion later.

Hanoi Pondering; May Fear China

Maddox Nearer to Governor

By GENE ROBERTS
(c) N. Y. Times News Service

ATLANTA—The Georgia supreme court ruled yesterday that the state legislature had the "power and the right" to choose Georgia's next governor. The decision cleared the way for the legislature to act on Tuesday, and further enhanced the chances of a gubernatorial victory for Lester G. Maddox, the militantly segregationist Democratic candidate.

Maddox promptly praised the court's 5-2 decision. But his Republican opponent, U.S. Rep. Howard H. (Bo) Callaway declared that the "people of Georgia are always the loser when there is the possibility that they might wind up not electing the governor."

However, the ruling, according to some court observers here, did not completely eliminate the possibility of a runoff election.

In writing the majority opinion, Justice Bond Almond restricted himself to saying that the overwhelmingly Democratic assembly has the "power and right" to elect the governor. Thus, he stopped short of fully invoking the state constitution which says that, in the event that no other candidate receives a majority of the votes, the legislature "shall" elect the governor.

As the observers see it, Almond's choice of words may mean that the court would not interfere in the event that the legislature decides that the people—and not the legislators—should choose the next governor.

Shafer Requests Emergency Report On Revenue Needs

HARRISBURG (AP) — Governor-elect Raymond P. Shafer asked his special tax study commission yesterday to submit to him an emergency report on immediate state revenue needs by March 1.

"This, I know, is short notice, but essential," Shafer told the commission members at a meeting here. "The state and my administration are in need of an emergency study and recommendation on revenue needs and how to meet them in the next fiscal year."

Authoritative estimates have set $200 million as the additional revenue the Shafer administration will have to produce in the next fiscal year to meet new spending authorized by the 1965 and 1966 legislatures.

TOKYO—Increasingly bloody clashes accompanying the current purge in Communist China "may develop into a revolution" surpassing in violence the upheaval that brought the Communists to power in 1949, a Japanese correspondent in Peking reported yesterday.

The correspondent said that Red Guard posters in the Chinese capital have described incidents between opposed groups of workers in widely separated regions, including Kiangsi, Shanghai, Chengtu and Chungking. Each report, he said, was headed by the phrase, "an emergency notice."

According to the account telephoned yesterday to Asahi, a leading Japanese newspaper, by Tadashi Nogami, the paper's bureau chief in Peking, the Red Guard posters have indicated a significant increase in the number of such clashes during the new year holidays.

"The scope of the present cultural revolution (purge) is so wide and extensive that it may develop into a revolution more violent than the first one," Nogami reported in yesterday's Asahi.

Observers of Chinese affairs have described the upheaval in mainland China as a collision between conservatives in the Chinese Communist party headed by party chairman Mao Tse-tung, and liberal elements led by Liu Shao-chi, the head of state.

Indications so far are that the struggle will end in victory for the "mainstream" faction headed by Mao and his heirs.

Marine Sergeant Presented 11 Pairs of Wooden Shoes

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A Kalamazoo Marine sergeant who wanted a pair of wooden shoes to beat the Vietnamese monsoon mud now has almost enough "klompen" to build a small raft.

Sgt. Thomas W. Ryan of Company B, 9th Motor Transport Battalion, wrote a letter to the Kalamazoo Gazette last week asking for wooden shoes.

He said he learned of wooden shoes while on a tour of duty in Europe where he noticed Dutch farmers wearing them in the fields.

"Over here in Dong Ha," he wrote, "we are, as you know, in the monsoon season. You can't believe the mud, sir. This is my reason for asking for wooden shoes."

Kalamazoo has many residents of Dutch descent. Many of them had seen action in both world wars. Others have sons in the service. So far they have responded with 11 pairs of "klompen."

Mrs. Thomas Merlyn Ryan, the sergeant's wife, said that each pair of shoes she received for her husband had a story behind it.

Two pairs came from two teenage boys, both natives of the Netherlands who came to this country as youngsters.

"I know the shoes meant a lot to them but they were so proud

Predict Bloody Revolution To Accompany Chinese Purge

"THE MOST STARTLING SALE" I'VE EVER SEEN IN ALL MY 24 YEARS OF SELLING FURNITURE IN WARREN

exclaimed Bertha Latshaw, of Levinson Brothers

Yes, come this May, I have been selling furniture right here in Warren for the past 24 years and I have never seen nor even heard of a furniture sale as large and gigantic as Levinson Brothers is bringing to Warren starting Monday at 9:30. There'll be 3 trailer truckloads of furniture, coming direct from North Carolina and will be on sale at the K of C Ballroom. Why, it's a sale so large, it's almost like showing all the furniture I've sold in the past 24 years all at one time, all under one roof, all right here on Second Avenue in Warren. Yes, it's really hard to believe! WATCH MONDAY'S PAPER FOR MORE DETAILS!

Explorers See Slide Show On Local Archeology

Stanley W. Lantz, archeologist on the staff of the Carnegie Museum, gave a slide talk on local archeology before Explorer Post 53 at the Warren YMCA Wednesday.

He was assisted by John Zavinsky, secretary of Kinzua Chapter 18, Pennsylvania Society for Archeology. Also participating were Laurence Stotz, U.S. Forest Ranger for the Sheffield District Allegheny National Forest, an experienced archeologist and Forester William Rusin, both leaders of Post 53.

Lantz showed colored slides of important sites in the area, particularly excavations of ancient rock shelters used by successive inhabitants of the upper Allegheny region over many millenniums.

Of interest was the fact that coloration of various strata of earths removed from the shelters illustrated definite climate conditions that obtained over many centuries. Most of the soil accumulated in rock shelters through being blown into the air by the winds, and settling in the cavities in the rock formations overlooking valleys.

Fragments of pottery, projectile points and other artifacts, as well as spectrographic analysis of soil samples, revealed the antiquity of the people who used these shelters, and much about their mode of living. Among rare finds in one shelter were stones placed to form a hearth for fires for cooking and warmth.

Lantz explained that beginners can be most useful in archeological diggings, but that time and experience are required to learn to read the various artifacts and remains on an archeological site.

Members of Explorer Post 53 attending included: Russell Peterson, David Chapman, Alex Palmer, Gary Bargerstock, Danny Lasenmyer, Terry Button, Doug Hoover, Paul Smith, Jay Jetter, Ken Sedon, Del Risau, Tom Donaldson, Bill Lounsbury, Tim Kinander, Tim Gullett, Hermie Falber, Donnie Howe, Tim Siffin, Jeff Jetter and Randy Swanson.

Explorer Post 53 is sponsored by Allegheny National Forest and provides a program for young men which includes outdoor activities, and in depth study of forestry, watersheds, conservation, archeology, recreation, wild life management and other phases of natural resources.

THREE SENTENCED FRIDAY

Trooper Wins Praise, Solved Holdup Hoax

Three men appeared before Judge Alexander C. Flick Jr. for sentencing yesterday morning.

Theodore Knisely, of RD 1, Clarendon, brought in on a bench warrant on a non-support charge, narrowly escaped being sent to the Allegheny Workhouse due to, as the judge put it, "his attitude in the past."

The jurist gave Knisely one more opportunity—his last chance to comply with the $10 a week support order since the man is currently employed. Judge Flick warned, however, that if Knisely fails to fulfill his promise, it will be the end and other treatment called for.

John Anthony Stabile, of Bradford, charged with obstructing an officer in the performance of his duties, was ordered to pay costs, $100 fine and serve three days in jail with credit for two.

Stabile, on Nov. 14, at the power plant construction site at the base of the Kinzua Dam, according to testimony by Chief Deputy Sheriff Richard E. Hegerty, threatened workers causing them to leave the job. Hegerty arrived at the scene and found Stabile, in an intoxicated condition, standing atop a 15 foot wooden platform.

Hegerty stated Stabile became abusive and picked up a piece of steel reinforcement and said he would hit the former. The chief deputy told the court that the defendant was handcuffed and removed forcibly.

Judge Flick advised the Bradford man that he "wasn't going to help his union situation when he was drinking."

State Trooper Harry W. Jabo of the Warren substation was complimented for his good police work in solving an alleged armed robbery of an attendant at the Keystone Service Station in Youngsville on Dec. 11. Judge Flick said Jabo's handling of the case set an example for other police agencies and was a credit to the Pennsylvania State Police.

The defendant was Preston Earl Meade of RD 3, Tidoute, who on the date in question claimed he had been held up by an armed robber who proceeded to tie him with an electric cord and make off with some $140.

Youngsville police chief J. E. Chappel, called the substation, asking assistance in the investigation. Jabo testified that Meade's story as to how the alleged robber tied him up didn't sound plausible. After questioning, Meade admitted the holdup was a hoax and that he had taken the money himself and buried it in a small can in the rear of the station.

Bail was put up by the defendant's employer, Marion Grubbs, and Meade is still employed by the latter.

Judge Flick suspended imposition of sentence, placed Meade on 30-day probation and ordered that costs be paid.

Name Fuellhart To New Position

William C. Fuellhart, assemblyman for Warren and Forest Counties, has been elected secretary of the Game and Fisheries Committee of the Pennsylvania House.

This is a new committee, which assumes the functions of two former separate committees. It is reported the new Game and Fisheries committee will be an important one. Chairman is Representative Alexander, of Clarion County.

This assignment is in addition to Fuellhart's appointments to three other committees: Recreation and Tourism, Military and Veterans Affairs, and Liquor Control Committees.

Start Work On By-Pass At Corry

Preliminary work of the Corry Route 6 by-pass got under way Thursday. Tree cutting and grubbing crews from the Penn Lines Co., sub-contractor for the Dunn Construction Co., moved onto the site to begin clearing the right-of-way at both the east and west ends.

The Dunn Co. will concentrate this winter on getting the right-of-way in shape to start paving during the coming summer.

The route will start at the intersection of Columbus ave. and N. Center st. and run westward along W. Columbus ave. until it veers southward and comes down through the stand of pines opposite the Corry fish hatchery. There it will connect again with Route 6.

Ball Will Head Local Delegation To Inauguration

Charles H. Percy, newly-elected U.S. Senator from Illinois, will be the speaker at the dinner. Percy's victory over veteran Senator Paul H. Douglas was a highlight of the recent election.

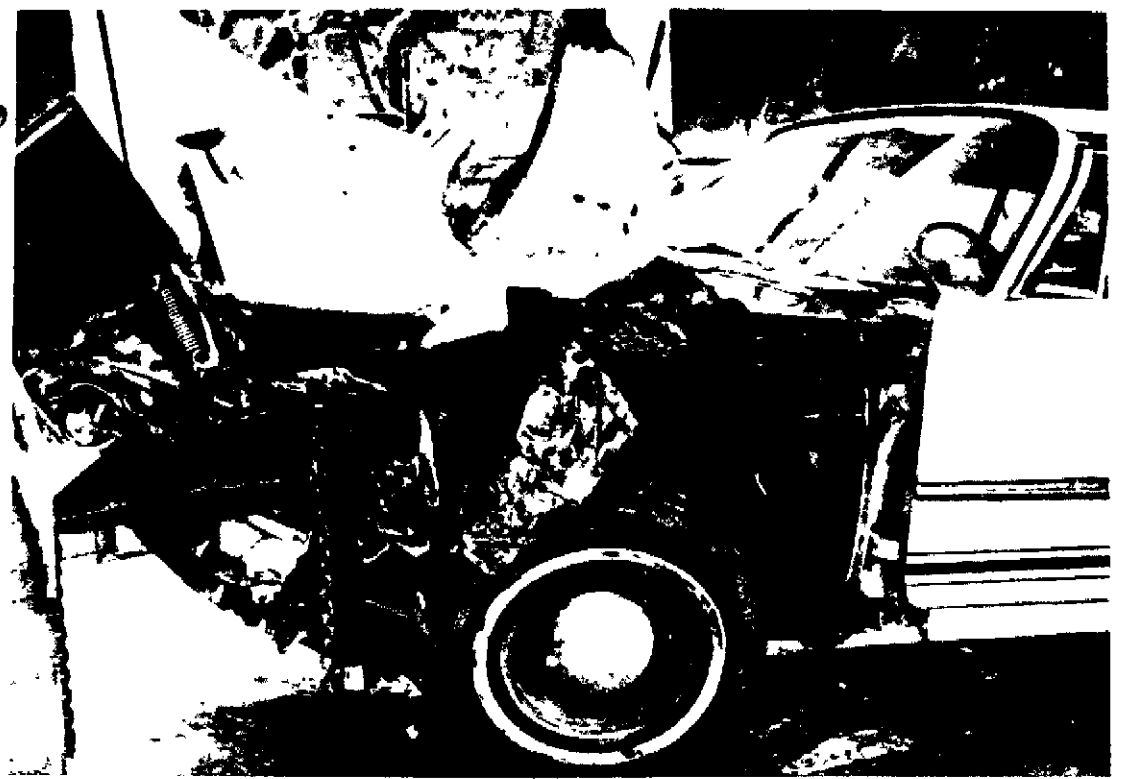

The inaugural ball will take place in the State Farm Show auditorium.

Besides Mr. and Mrs. Ball, others expected to be on hand from the county are: Mayor and Mrs. Curtis McGraw, and Mr. and Mrs. Merle See of Youngsville; Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Lay, Irvine; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Katon, State Assemblyman and Mrs. William Fuellhart, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Clinger Jr., Neil Culbertson, Virginia Donaldson, Miss Sunny Lucia, Jack McCool, Jack Henry, of Warren; and probably Wendell McMillen of Sheffield. WSH Will Continue Treating Alcoholics

Warren State Hospital will continue to treat persons committed as inebriates, although the state's new Mental Health Act effective Jan. 1 makes no special provision for treatment of alcoholics, it was announced this week.

Dr. Robert Israel, superintendent, stated persons can be committed as alcoholics by court order with much the same procedure as in the past.

Dr. Israel said the hospital feels quite strongly that its program for alcoholics had met with considerable success and therefore intends to continue to accept alcoholics.

The first step in the commitment process is for an interested relative to come to the hospital to detail the background of the alcoholic and for a determination of the prospective patient's willingness to cooperate in the treatment.

On the basis of the interview, hospital officials will notify the court that the patient would be accepted if committed by court order.

Persons committed for treatment of alcoholism will not be released for leave of absence.

PUC Hearing In Suit Filed Against Bell

A Public Utilities Commission hearing was conducted in Warren County yesterday to hear testimony in a suit filed against Bell Telephone Co. by Mr. and Mrs. Barney Roberti, owners of the Youngsville Motel on Mathews Run rd.

The suit was filed against the utility by the couple after their motel was not listed in the telephone book's yellow pages. The Robertis claim loss of business since their establishment is fairly new and not too well known.

The usual PUC hearing procedure was followed. Two attorneys from Bell Telephone Company's Philadelphia dept. represented the utility. Mr. and Mrs. Roberti were present with their legal counsel, David W. Swanson.

A PUC examiner and recorder were on hand as testimony was taken in a two hour and forty-five minute session.

All of the testimony along with briefs will be sent to the Public Utility Commission to be studied before a decision is handed down.

Two Hurt In Crash On Route 6

Two persons were injured in a 7:40 a.m. traffic accident on Route 6 yesterday.

Treated and released from Warren General Hospital were Dennis Jeffrey Brown, 17, of 30 Weiler rd., and Gloria L. Brown, 44, of the same address.

State Trooper Paul W. Brown of the Warren substation, who investigated, stated that a car driven by young Brown, after passing a line of cars, realized a tight squeeze might result, hit the brakes, causing his vehicle to fishtail around and hit a GMC truck-trailer driven by Edward Davis, 50, Star Route, Leeper, Pa.

The rig, Brown said, had pulled from the Penelock drive a 1 was starting down the highway when the mishap occurred.

Total damage was estimated at $650.

TIME OUT FOR MEN and a fashion change for them. After years of projecting the correct Madison Avenue impression on college campuses and in the labyrinths of big business, an almost drastic change in fashion has successfully silhouetted itself across the horizon of the men's fashion world. For some little time now, narrow ties have been out and wide ties "in", creating the most important single topic, at least in the male portion of the retail business, of last year. First they went to the wide, wide ties that were traditional with their fathers before them, but then the trend waned and settled for the tie that is slightly more than two and a half inches to three inches wide. My younger son got out all his father's and grandfather's ties and looked them over speculatively, then put them away, choosing to wait for the more conservative and somewhat narrower style which soon was declared. He didn't have too long to wait — Now he too has a modest supply added to his wardrobe, including a blue and red paisley, which I think is extremely good-looking in an almost quiet way, but which he viewed with a hidden twinkle in his eyes, making me wonder if he would ever wear that particular tie. Anyhow, the new creations have perked up the sometimes too conservative style of dress the well-groomed man has been accustomed to follow, and the new color evolution, revolution might better describe it, coming in various weaves and prints includes shades of blues, reds, golds, as well as the more somber and traditional tones of green. Well, history does tell us that in centuries past, it was the male who preened and dressed in the rich materials and jeweled colors — And that takes in the swashbuckling era of the Three Musketeers made famous by the pen of Alexandre Dumas (the elder). So, maybe all this travel in space is having its effect in a small way as evidenced in bolder ties. After all this is quite a swashbuckling age too, only living in it we don't always see it that way.

WOMAN'S CLUB BRIDGE, with four tables of the Howell System in play on Thursday afternoon, resulted in the following scores: 1st Mrs. Arthur DeLuca and Mrs. Shirl Glass, 29; 2nd Mrs. Carl Hultberg and Mrs. Joseph Bevevino, 21½; 3rd, Mrs. Winston Teague and Mrs. D. E. Conaway, 20. The average score of all who played came to 18. Bridge will again be played at the same time and place next Thursday.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our son is a sophomore in a university 400 miles away. The girl he dated before he left tries to see him every few weeks.

When he comes home for holidays and special occasions Rita (fictitious name) meets him at the airport. This is a privilege his father and I would enjoy.

Evidently the girl never has to check with her parents concerning meals or curfew. She is at our house for lunch and dinner every day and then they go out for the evening. We get to see very little of him when he is home.

We want our children's friends to feel welcome but don't you think it is in poor taste for this girl to hang around so much? We have talked to our son about her constant presence and he defends her — saying, "She is here at my invitation."

Are we old-fashioned or as the kids say "square"? What, in your opinion, is the best way to handle this? — FOGIES IN OUR 40'S

DEAR FOGIES: Kill Rita with kindness. Give her so much hospitality that she chokes on it. If you knock the girl you will force your son to defend her. Praise her to the skies — find SOMETHING to admire — and soon your son will be knocking her.

Any gal who is as aggressive as this one stands a good chance of losing her boy friend — if his parents, especially his Mom, stay out of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The letter about the youngster who bought her mother a card of buttons at the dime store for her birthday reminded me of a bitter experience. This story has a good moral and I hope you will print it.

Several years ago my granddaughter, who was then five years old, picked a rose from the neighbor's garden. She wanted it for her mother. When the neighbor saw her he began to shout and curse. I immediately asked the man how much he thought the rose was worth. He said, "Five dollars." I gave him a $5 bill and he seemed satisfied. Then I looked up the street and saw my daughter-in-law hitting the little girl with a stick. The child had tried to give her mother the rose and her mother was beating her. I have never seen such a sad little face in my life.

That night I told my son about the incident and both he and his wife suggested that I mind my own business. A terrible argument followed. That was seven years ago and I have not been inside their home since.

Last week my son called and said they had taken the girl to a specialist because she is "disturbed." The specialist suggested that the girl should be placed elsewhere. My son asked me if I would take her. How can I undo all those early years of abuse and fear? Please tell me. — HEARTBROKEN GRANDMOTHER

DEAR GRANDMOTHER: Children who are emotionally damaged because of extremely harsh treatment often carry the scars forever. Generous doses of love and understanding in a new environment could help your granddaughter find her place in the world. I hope you will give it a try. There is much to be gained and little to lose.

Use your freezer for storing chicken parts, then make up a good quantity of chicken stock at one time. After the stock is made it, too, should be stored in the freezer (in individual 1-cup portions) for use when needed. Wing tips, giblets and bony back parts make excellent chicken stock when coupled with seasonings.

Sodality
Entertaining
Tomorrow

Tomorrow evening Our Lady Counsel Sodality will again honor their parents in the ninth annual Parents Night. High light of the program will be a talk given by guest speakers, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wise of Louisville, Kentucky, entitled "A Child Grows in Love," illustrating the theme: a child learns of God and His love through family love.

Mr. Wise is familiar to Catholic high school students in Warren, having given a special program to initiate Catholic Youth Week on October 31, 1965. Well known to youth in the Louisville area, Mr. Wise has presented weekend retreats for Sodality officers in Louisville; he has conducted "twilight", or afternoon retreats, for four schools in Louisville and one school in Cincinnati; and he has conducted parish hootenannies under the Project Head Start program.

Also a liturgist, Mr. Wise has conducted a parish liturgical institute at St. Benedict's parish in Louisville and has aided in initiating liturgical programs, both musically and ceremonially, at eight other parishes in Kentucky.

A well-educated layman, he earned a bachelor's degree in philosophy and a bachelor's degree in theology from St. Mary's University in Baltimore, Maryland. He continued his education at Catherine Spalding College in Louisville, earning a Master's degree in Counseling and Guidance. He is currently working in the Catechetical Center of the diocese of Louisville.

Mrs. Maleita Wise, a native of Louisville, graduated from Webster College in St. Louis, Missouri, in Art Education and has attended the University of Louisville. She has taught Art at Settlement House in Louisville, a home for wayward.

General chairman for the evening dinner is Linda Wilson, assisted by Mike Curren, co-chairman.

MRS. MICHAEL F. VAN TASSEL
(McIntosh Studio)

Linda Kay Hamilton Married
To Michael Van Tassel

Linda Kay Hamilton and Michael F. Van Tassel exchanged nuptial vows this week in the First Methodist Church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Hamilton of 317 Forest drive, Erie, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Van Tassel of 9 Brown street, Union City. The bride is also Director of Christian Education for the Warren First Methodist Church.

The Rev. James Cousins, pastor, and the Rev. Dr. Wendell E. Minnigh officiated at the candlelight service in which the double ring wedding rites were observed. Arthur Lydell, organist, played appropriate music before the ceremony.

Altar decorations included arrangements of white chrysanthemums and gladioli with greens. Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride appeared in a floor length gown of silk faille, styled with a high rise waistline and an A-line skirt. Lace insertions graced the dress and the double train; the longer chapel train of the two was detachable. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion depended from a lace circlet studded with crystals and pearls and she carried a white Rainbow Bible upon which rested a floral arrangement of white orchids and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Anne Hamilton of Erie, sister of the bride, wore a gown of red velvet and white peau de soie. Her flowers were white carnations and red sweetheart roses. A velvet bow of matching red secured an airy veil. The bridesmaids, costumed identically, were the Misses Lynette Van Tassel, sister of the groom, Mary Rosier, cousin of the bride, who was the junior bridesmaid.

The mother of the bride was in a blue silk suit with black accessories and had a white orchid corsage. The mother of the groom chose a dress of blue taffeta with lace, and black accessories and a corsage of white roses.

A reception was held in the church parlors immediately after the ceremony. Presiding at the tea table were the Misses Susan Griswold of Erie and Kathleen Taylor of Pittsburgh. The wedding cake was served by the Misses Phyllis White of Berea, Ohio, and Carol Simpson of Union City. At the punch bowls were Miss Gail Hamilton of Greenhurst, N. Y., and Miss Barbara Gerdy of Union City, with Miss Eileen Berkebile of North Canton, Ohio and Mrs. Gloria Peterson of Erie managing the guest book.

Junior aides were members of the Senior High First Methodist Youth Fellowship of Warren. The bride is a 1962 graduate of Union City High School and a 1966 graduate of Baldwin-Wallace College in Berea, Ohio. The groom is also a 1962 graduate of the same high school, and was a member of the senior class at Baldwin-Wallace College before his induction into the Armed Forces this past fall.

Mr. Van Tassel is serving in the United States Air Force and will be stationed in Alaska, where Mrs. Van Tassel will join him in mid-summer. Until that time she will remain at her present post at First Methodist.

Pre-nuptial affairs were given by Mrs. LaVerne Hamilton and daughter, Joyce, the Misses Sue Schuman and Jane Sedon, and the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Hints From Heloise

Help Problem Solved

DEAR HELOISE:

I'm the mother of two tiny children and have very little extra time or money.

This past Christmas it was decided that the whole clan would gather at our house for dinner. Believe me, I was in a dither over the preparations until it occurred to me to ask our baby sitter's teen-age sister to help.

I paid her the baby-sitting rate, and in one morning she vacuumed the whole house, washed two floors, dusted, polished silver, etc.; leaving me free to straighten the clutter, set out the good dishes and get a head start on the cooking.

We probably took a few more cookie and chatter breaks than professional help but my "maid for the morning" was very anxious to please and worked like a little beaver.

I felt almost guilty afterwards for getting so much for so little, but I talked with her mother who assured me that her daughter was thrilled with the extra money and would be glad to help again. I have just realized that by not buying a new dress for the holidays, I saved enough to get many more hours of help.

So, I offer my suggestions to other harried mothers (who know a willing teen-ager). Not only for pre-party clean-ups but when the weekly grind gets to be too much. It's the wisest investment I've ever made.

Mrs. W. W. W.

DEAR HELOISE:

Try soaking prunes in pineapple juice instead of water. Heat the juice, pour it over the prunes in a jar and let them stand as usual.

The pineapple juice really adds that extra something to the prunes.

Pat

DEAR HELOISE:

I use a stay from a corset or girdle as a gauge for measuring hems.

I mark the length of the hem on the stay with a pencil, and it can be easily erased and re-marked for the next hem.

Mrs. John Donahue

DEAR HELOISE:

How can I remove berry stains?

My good, white tablecloth looks as if it's ruined.

Alice

DEAR ALICE:

To remove fruit and berry stains from your cloth, launder with a synthetic detergent. Rinse in white vinegar and water solution.

Or, work glycerin into fabric and let stand for several hours. Then add a few drops of white vinegar, launder and rinse. (Bleach can be used.)

When fruit juice is set by heat or age, sometimes it is impossible to remove. The best method I know is this:

Force cool water through the stain. Soak overnight, if necessary. If the stain remains, rub neutral detergent into it, then rinse. If stain still remains, use chlorine bleach, sodium perborate bleach, or hydrogen peroxide.

Always be sure to SPOT TEST first and to FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS and CAUTIONS on the container.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Our children just came in with chapped wrists that twilight area where mittens and coat sleeves part during strenuous play.

Remembering the thick rubbing on the tops of many socks, I rounded up all the holey socks, cut off the toes and made a small thumb hole.

Presto, a wrist guard that fits under mittens perfectly.

Barbara Tull

DEAR HELOISE:

To clean snow and ice from windshields, just take an old rag, fill it with salt to make a bag, and rub the car windows.

The snow and ice will disappear like magic.

Jacqueline Waxler

DEAR HELOISE:

After you have made contour sheets, try contouring the bottoms of your blankets also, especially for the children's beds.

Wonderful!

Hope this helps

Unterreiners Sell Edgewood Court Motel

New owners today are taking over the Edgewood Court Motel, west of Youngsville on Route 6. The Youngsville Courier comments as follows on the sale of the property:

Helen and Bill Unterreiner have sold their motel and restaurant located on Rt. 6 outside of Youngsville to two brothers from the Bridgeville area of Pittsburgh. Jack and Ray Witzel will take over the ownership and management of the facility on Saturday, January 7th. The Witzels have been in the contracting and building business in the Pittsburgh area, particularly the masonry field.

Jack Witzel and his wife Mary Ann and their six children will live in the new house being built behind the motel. This structure in itself is an interesting item in that it is a pre-cut home which arrives in sections and is assembled on the site and quickly finished. Ray Witzel and his wife Mary Ann and their three children will live in the motel apartment.

The Unterreiners will move to an apartment on High st. in Youngsville until their new home on the Old Pittsfield Road is built in the spring. Shortly after the first of February, Helen and Bill plan to take off for a trip to California with Mike and Mark. They will visit relatives in the Golden Gate area.

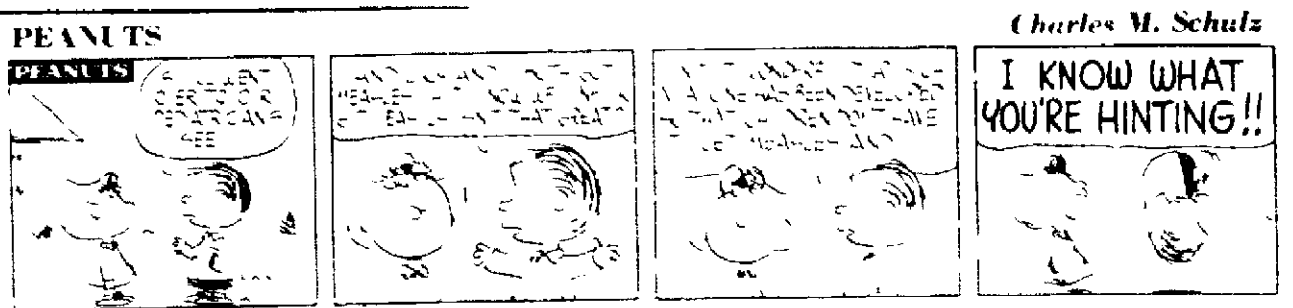

Their daughter Lisa will visit her aunt in Buffalo while the family is traveling.

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JANUARY 7, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Much deep thinking should go into this day. There will be proposals and counter-proposals. Do not be swept away by emotionalism or bias. Let good judgment be your keyword.

Taurus (April 21 to May 21)—Note Aries. Your outlook similar. Be careful not to misinterpret others' meanings and not to be misunderstood yourself. Shun gossip.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Overcome any self-consciousness that could prevent you from producing in the top form you can. Aim for special achievement rather than accomplishment by volume.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Avoid hasty words, conclusions. If not sure, wait until you are before acting. But don't just wait, and wait-off into do-nothingness! Avoid extremes.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Review finances, domestic situations, children's needs. There may be room for improvement. If an idea proves unfeasible, an extra twist to change it. Study situations.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Better-than-average planetary aspects. Aim for progress in a normal, random manner, avoiding leniency, haste. Some fine gains through your innate artistry.

On the other hand, the development of this date is a born leader, a person of some power, a gifted salesman and a witty entertainer. When needed, your inner courage is remarkable. You are often "lucky," which means you profit by the good things you are observing.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

EXPRESSWAY POLLUTION

Commuters inhale considerable carbon monoxide (CO) and other automobile exhaust products, especially when driving in rush-hour traffic. Dr. A. H. Hagen-Smith, of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, believes the amount inhaled may be sufficient to affect the motorist's attention and driving ability.

Many people spend an hour or more traveling to and from work on busy freeways and boulevards. The exhaust fumes permeate the whole area but the concentration is greatest during the hours of heavy traffic.

The California investigator found that the CO level was 37 ppm (parts per million) when driving fast. In heavy traffic, when the auto moves at less than 20 miles per hour, the concentration was 54 to 120 ppm. Police-men in the Holland tunnel in New York are exposed daily to 85 to 88 ppm with peaks as high as 245 ppm.

Monitoring stations on the Pasadena and Harbor freeway showed that the concentration of CO and other exhaust fumes drops rapidly a short distance from the most heavily traveled thoroughfares, except at stop signals where traffic accumulates.

Carbon monoxide replaces oxygen in the blood and 10 per cent of the oxygen in hemoglobin is likely to be replaced when the individual is exposed to 30 ppm. 60 ppm would inactivate 10 per cent of the hemoglobin. If the commuter is smoking, an additional 10 per cent is added to the blood. Up to 20 per cent CO in the blood produces moderate headache, fatigue, and possible unconsciousness.

The ill effects depend upon the amount of carbon monoxide in the air and how long the individual is exposed. Mental confusion and collapse may occur when the CO saturation in the blood reaches 50 to 60 per cent. It is the brain that suffers most from CO poisoning in these circumstances.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

OUTRUN BY TIME

BERLIN, West Germany (AP) — At the World Conference on Evangelism here, a large ticking-clock showed that the world's population had increased nearly a million in the 10 days of the meeting — a gain 10 times faster than converts are being won to Christianity.

STEPS TOWARD BROADWAY

NEW YORK (AP) — Film producer Charles Kasher is teaming up with the Royal Shakespeare Company to present "The Staircase" on Broadway next season. The play by Charles Dyer is now being presented by the partnership in London with Paul Scofield and Patrick Magee. The story concerns a pair of elderly homosexuals.

NBC is preparing a one-hour documentary on control of possession and use of firearms in this country for a Feb. 19 airing.

Jackie Gleason is negotiating with CBS for another season on the network. The series, to resume next fall after the summer vacation again will stress "The Honeymooners" episodes that returned to popularity this season.

"Soldier in Love," an original television drama for "Hallmark Hall of Fame," will star Claire Bloom, Keith Mitchell and Jean Simmons. The Jerome Ross play is to be taped in New York in January for broadcasting on April 26.

WEEK'S PREVIEW

Theme song for the coming week is "There'll Be Some Changes," Network television's second season, an innovation this year, his full stride with all three majors, ABC, CBS and NBC, offering some new programs to replace those that just couldn't make the grade.

NBC leads off with "Captain Nice" Monday night and CBS has "Mr. Terrific" the same evening. ABC introduces "The Invaders" on Tuesday night.

On Wednesday evening, ABC starts a feature-length movie, nudging "ABC Stage 67" to Thursday night, screening "Be-witched" a half hour earlier and debuting "Rango" on Friday night followed by the "Phyllis" Diller Show, formerly "The Fruits of Southampton."

NBC returns Sgt. Friday to TV fans Thursday night with "Dragnet 67."

There will be some noteworthy specials during the coming period, namely NBC's "Today in Britain" Sunday evening, and "Island Called Ellis" on Friday night. ABC has "The Beatles at Shea Stadium" on Tuesday night.

CBS has a Henry Cabot Lodge interview early Sunday evening and a report on progress in healing the human mind on Tuesday night.

For the sports-minded, on Saturday there is the Senior Bowl Game on NBC and the Hula Bowl on ABC's Wide World of Sports. College basketball starts Saturday on CBS stations and WICU has a golf series on Saturday and WGR carries it Sunday.

WPSX-TV OFFERS

Educational television is reaching an estimated 14 million people each week and more than 20 million each month, according to survey data collected and evaluated by the Institute for Communication Research of Stanford University in the spring of 1966.

WPSX-TV, the Pennsylvania State University ETV station with its transmitter at Clearfield, was among the 45 stations covered by the survey. But because of the reluctance of some Warren county cable operators to add WPSX-TV most of Warren county residents are being denied this service.

Of the individual station data released, WPSX-TV has the third highest viewing percentage across the nation at 32.6. This figure means that of the total viewing audience who could possibly watch WPSX-TV, an estimated 32.6 do so each week. In Boston it was 22.9, 25.1 in Pittsburgh and 20 per cent in New York City. Highest were Athens, Ga., with 38 per cent and Gainesville, Fla., with 32.7 per cent.

Injuries Are Fatal To Rouseville Woman

TITUSVILLE — Mrs. M. Nella Berry, 84, of Rouseville, died Thursday in Oil City Hospital from injuries suffered in a two-car accident on Route 8 between Oil City and Titusville on Dec. 29.

State Police said the accident occurred as an auto operated by Leland Berry of Rouseville pulled from a private drive into the path of a vehicle driven north by Mrs. Anna Luton of Titusville, RD 1.

Berry was taken to Oil City Hospital and released following treatment, while Mrs. Luton was admitted to Titusville Hospital.

Four Left Homeless By Titusville Fire

TITUSVILLE — A family of four was left temporarily homeless when fire heavily damaged the residence of Albert D. Lowros, 323 East Elm st., Thursday. Damage will run into several thousand dollars.

Firemen reported the blaze broke out in an upstairs bathroom apparently from a heater. Flames gutted the bathroom and burned through the roof. Lowros and two firemen sustained minor injuries in fighting the blaze.

Players To Offer Comedies

Roles have been assigned for the second production in Warren Players Club's Season of Comedy. With the busy holiday season over intensive rehearsals have begun for the two one-act comedies which will comprise the January presentation of the local theatrical group.

The two comedies, "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye," will be given on January 27th and 28th at Beatty Auditorium. Each has a cast of three characters and both are being directed by Edith O'Hara. In announcing the casts Mrs. O'Hara noted that they included a balance of newcomers and veteran players that should add to the enjoyment of the shows.

"The Private Ear" will feature Bill O'Dell who has made many Player appearances and directed the musical comedy, "How to Succeed," given earlier in the season; Valerie Hertrich who also appeared in "How to Succeed"; and Rich Hines who is in his first show.

Appearing in "The Public Eye" will be Dr. Ross Bryan, one of the club's most active members; Pat O'Brien who was last seen as a lecherous executive in "How to Succeed"; and another new actress, Kay Gorenflo.

Providing Mrs. O'Hara with major assistance in the production of the twin comedies are the co-stars of the Fall musical production, John Check and Ann Putnam. John is producer of the show while Ann is serving as bookholder.

"The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye" were written by noted British playwright, Peter Shaffer, and the shows have enjoyed great success in both England and this country. Shaffer is particularly noted for "Five Finger Exercise" which was a hit both as a play and a movie. He also wrote "Royal Hunt of the Sun" which just completed a long Broadway run and is now touring the country prior to film production. His newest show will open in New York in the near future. A movie version of "The Private Ear" appeared in Warren last November under the film title, "The Pad and How to Use It."

Abraham took up his duties there on Wednesday, succeeding Ronnie Nuhfer who has been promoted to manager of the Quality's Oil City store.

William Radack, vice president of sales and stores for Quality Market, also announces the promotion and transfer of John Neckers, former manager of the Corry store on North Center street. Neckers has been appointed assistant superintendent of stores in the area, including the Corry store and others in a 50-mile radius of western New York state.

Earl Slayton, 29 East Congress street, Corry, who has been with the Quality chain for the past four and a half years, is the new manager of the Corry store.

Simplified Tax Return Under Study for 1968

WASHINGTON (AP) — Regardless of whether U.S. taxpayers are hit with an income tax increase this year, there is a chance they will get some relief from the actual labor of figuring the tax to pay in future years.

The House Ways and Means Committee, it was learned today, has agreed to a Treasury request to consider later this year legislation for a simplified tax return that would abate some of the arithmetical agonies of mid-April.

The Treasury is experimenting this year in the southeastern part of the country with an optional return form that would to some extent combine the actual return with the instructions for preparing it, so that a taxpayer by answering a series of questions, would arrive at his tax liability.

DHIA Testing Year's Records Of County Herds

Officials and supervisors of the Warren County Dairy Herd Improvement Association met Wednesday at the conference room in the Court House basement to make complete analysis of the year's records of all Warren County dairy herds participating in the DHIA testing program.

The analysts determines how each herd stands at the end of the year 1966, both in production and profits. The complete evaluation covers individual herds. About 50 dairy herds are on test with DHIA at present.

The Warren County DHIA finished its 43rd year September 30, 1966. Results from 1924 to 1966 are somewhat astonishing. In 1924 the average number of cows in the testing program during the year was 448. In 1966 an average of 1,481 cows were enrolled. In 1924 the average cow produced 7,413 pounds of milk and 292 pounds of butterfat. Today's cows averaged 12,088 pounds of milk with 466 pounds of butterfat per animal. The betterment in production is attributed to a number of factors. Great advances have been made in selective breeding of dairy cows over the years. Also there have been important developments in forage crops for dairy herds, and in animal nutrition.

Officers of the Warren County Dairy Herd Improvement Association are: President Evan Wilcox, Vice President Donald Gruber and Secretary-Treasurer Genevieve Atkins. Supervisors are Alden Abbott and Michael Matve Sr. Directors: Kenneth Lindell, Harold Curtis, Myron Ludwick, John Nordin and Donald Johnson.

Titusville Seeks Widening Route 8

TITUSVILLE — Titusville road boosters have launched a campaign for widening of Route 8 south to Cherrytree and plan to send a committee to Harrisburg next Wednesday to push the project.

Action followed Governor-elect Raymond Shafer's recent displayed interest in the widening of the highway. The Titusville committee will meet with the Highway Commission and present the case for a modern Route 8 to handle traffic originated by Titusville's forthcoming industrial and tourist expansion.

The idea for the meeting came after Shafer and Senator-Elect James Willard met last Wednesday. The senator reminded the governor-elect of the Titusville region's great need for a better road when the two met at ribbon-cutting ceremonies on the Keystone Shortway.

Willard got in touch with William Forsythe, manager of the Titusville Area Chamber of Commerce. Forsythe and local leaders worked out details of the Harrisburg trip Thursday noon. Five men will represent this region.

The most powerful argument for the road is the expansion program in Titusville of the Universal-Cyclops Specialty Steel Division of the Cyclops Corporation.

The commission is holding a regular two-day meeting next week. The Titusville group has been allotted about 30 minutes starting at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

CHRISTMAS IN JANUARY

Burt Duell is off to the Pennsylvania State Farm Show to enter Christmas trees in the statewide competition. Last year Collins Pine won five first prizes and two other prizes for Christmas trees grown on their 800 acres devoted exclusively to Christmas trees. (Photo by Hoff)

Collins Pine Enters Trees in Farm Show

For the eighth year, Collins Pine, of Sheffield, is entering specimens of their prize-winning Christmas Trees at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show, opening Monday, January 9, in Harrisburg.

Burt Duell, manager of the Christmas tree department of Collins Pine Company, is taking prime specimens of Scotch Pine, Red Pine, Australian Pine, White Pine, Engelmann Spruce, Black Spruce, and possibly a Blue Spruce, to enter in competition.

At the 1966 Pennsylvania State Farm Show Collins Pine entries came away with five first prizes, and two other prizes.

Duell will be accompanied by his family, Mrs. Duell, David 14, Terri 11, and Scott 10.

Collins Pine devotes over 800 acres exclusively to Christmas tree farming.

This season Collins Pine Company shipped 20,000 trees. Duell reports orders for six or seven thousand more could not be filled, because they came in too late in the season.

Sixty thousand acres of timberland in Warren and neighboring counties are operated by Collins Pine Company, under a modern timber management program, which provides a perpetual harvest of valuable timber. This great private tree-farming enterprise is conducted as a multiple-use forest, affording the general public recreation, hunting, fishing and camping.

Collins Pine also has vast tree farm operations in the Northwest.

Much of the land is part of the timberlands operated by the late Teddy Collins.

Urge Filing for SS Benefits Before 65

File your application for social security benefits three months before your 65th birthday and you will have Medicare protection at the earliest date possible, advises Lewis Epstein, district manager of the Jamestown social security office. This is also good advice for those who have no intention of retiring from their work. Anyone who delays filing until their birthday month or later risks a delayed start in their protection or no protection for several years.

Epstein pointed out that everyone has an initial seven-month enrollment period in which to elect medical insurance under Medicare. This initial period begins with the third month before the month the person turns 65 and ends with the third month after that month.

However, the month in which the individual applies will determine the date his medical insurance protection becomes available. If he waits until the month of his birthday or one of the three following months, his coverage will be delayed from one to three months. If the initial enrollment period is missed altogether, he will not have another opportunity until the last three months of the next odd-numbered year, and then he will have to pay a higher premium rate. Furthermore, his coverage will not begin until six to nine months after he enrolls.

Epstein also explained that some persons may be surprised to find that some cash benefits are payable, because of the new liberalized retirement test, even when a person continues working. It is now possible to pay benefits to some families when a worker is making as much as $4000 a year. However, even if cash benefits cannot be paid because of high earnings, applying early will speed payment when he does retire.

Epstein says an important and safe rule for all persons approaching age 65 is to file an application during the three months before their 65th birthday. The Jamestown social security office is located in the Federal Building and is open Monday through Thursday until 5 p.m., and until 8 p.m. on Friday evenings.

Income Increases

Net Income of Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. for fiscal third quarter ended Nov. 26 was $13,794,000 or 55 cents a share against $12,524,000 or 50 cents a share for the comparable 1965 period. For nine months net earnings were $40,762,000 or $1.64 a share compared with $37,237,000 or $1.50 a share a year ago.

We live in a day when much emphasis is placed upon power; Military power, atomic power, power to hurl guided missiles into outer space, power that could eliminate mankind from the face of the earth in a matter of minutes. Along with the discovery of tremendous power has come increased fear. Fear of what might happen if man does not learn to control that which he has discovered and developed.

In these days of fear, tensions, and emotional upsets, we need to turn to a power that excels all other power. This power is known as the power of prayer. We read in the Bible of many amazing events brought about by the power of prayer. Men and women of God prayed and things happened. Some may say, "That was back in Bible times, but what about today?" The power of prayer is just as effective in our day as it was in by-gone days.

Although prayer is an essential part of our religious life and is widely commended and universally praised - we will have to admit that it is shamefully neglected. Because of this neglect prayer seems to be powerless. How easy it is for us to drift into the habit of prayerlessness by allowing the prayer hour to be crowded out by the duties and pressures of our everyday life. All too often we take our ease in the secret place of prayer, then go forth to defeat and failure. We fail - not because the Power of God is inadequate to the task. We fail because our sense of need has not driven us to our knees.

We often marvel at the things that have been accomplished, by the power of prayer, in the life of someone else. If we are ever to witness the power that prayer can bring into our own lives - then we must pray. Alfred Lord Tennyson once said, "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." There is power in prayer - try it and see.
